Foreword

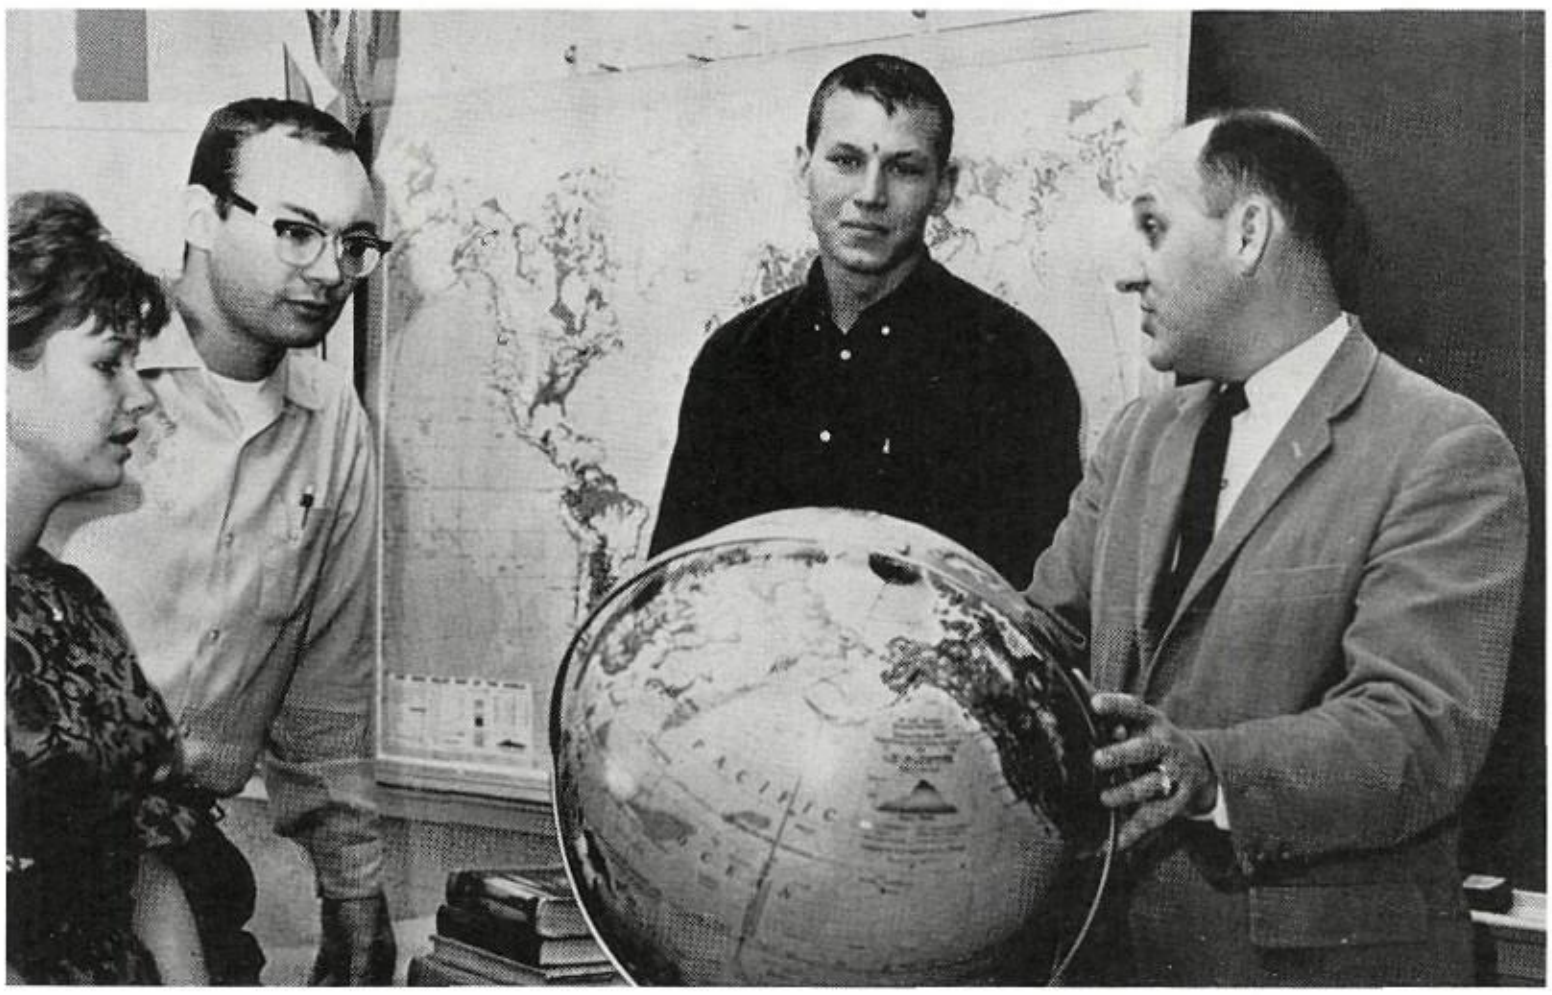
During his high school life, the student is presented with the best acts and thoughts of times past. He is taught in preparation for a career, but more than this, he is presented with the knowledge of how to live. Existence is not life in its complete form; knowledge is not the memorization of compiled facts. The opportunity to discover these qualities enriching and fulfilling the student's life is found in every class. A student is challenged to probe into and discover all that surrounds him.

To accept the challenge of perceiving, appreciating, and experiencing the best that has been said and done in the past is the responsibility of every Oxon Hill student. Literature and social studies bring our heritage to life and make it more tangible. These courses draw the student closer to the great works and actions which have contributed to the civilization of the world.

"This color is azure blue," says Linda Guzy to Doreen Shaddix and Sigrid Rander-Pehrson.

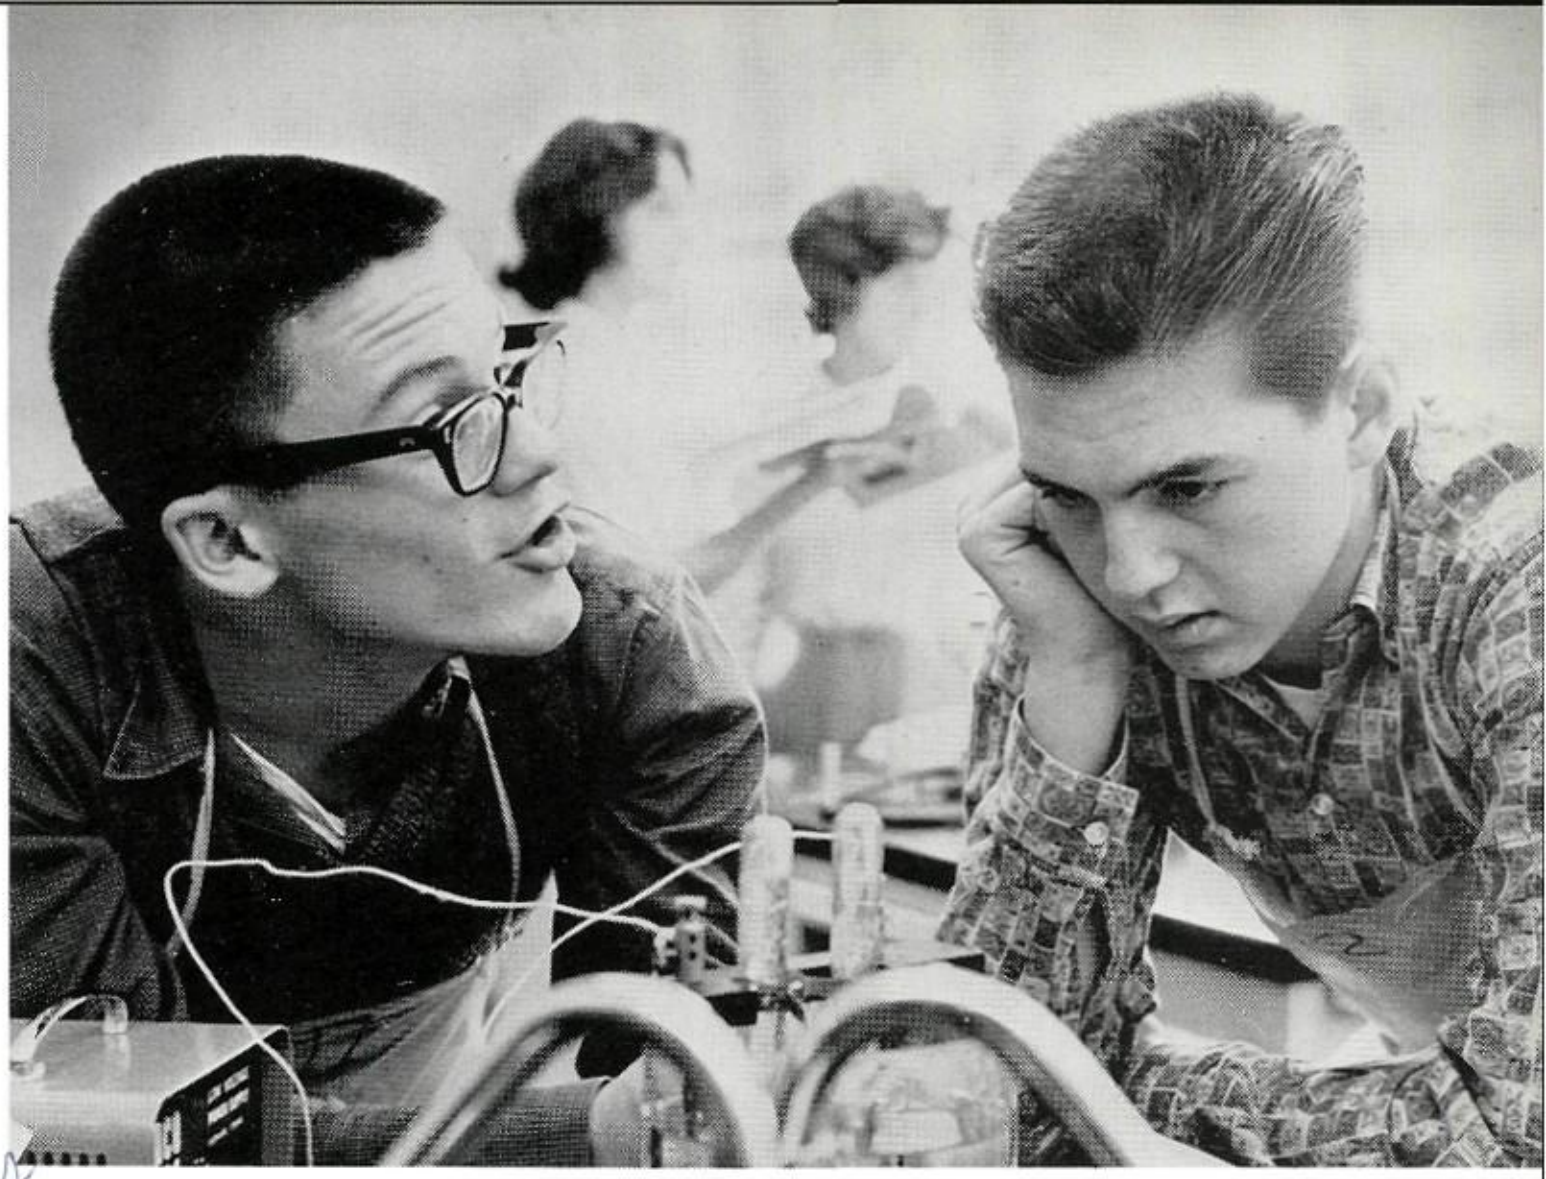
Students Glean the Best From Their Heritage

Janice Crotinger and Bill Shelton listen as Mr. Delaney reminds Ron Peaslee for the hundredth time not to squeak the globe.



Butch Thorne, Joe Naecker, Irving Ball, and Linda Haddix question Mrs. Percy on the intricacies of the Globe Theatre.

Miss Noland's advanced composition class writes a descriptive paragraph on why dogs don't like Life-savers.



"See, I told you it would work," says George Bedford to disbelieving Jack Graham.

The Best of Luck to the nicest girl in Chemistry class that never helped me on the test but was always nice to set by.
Jack Graham

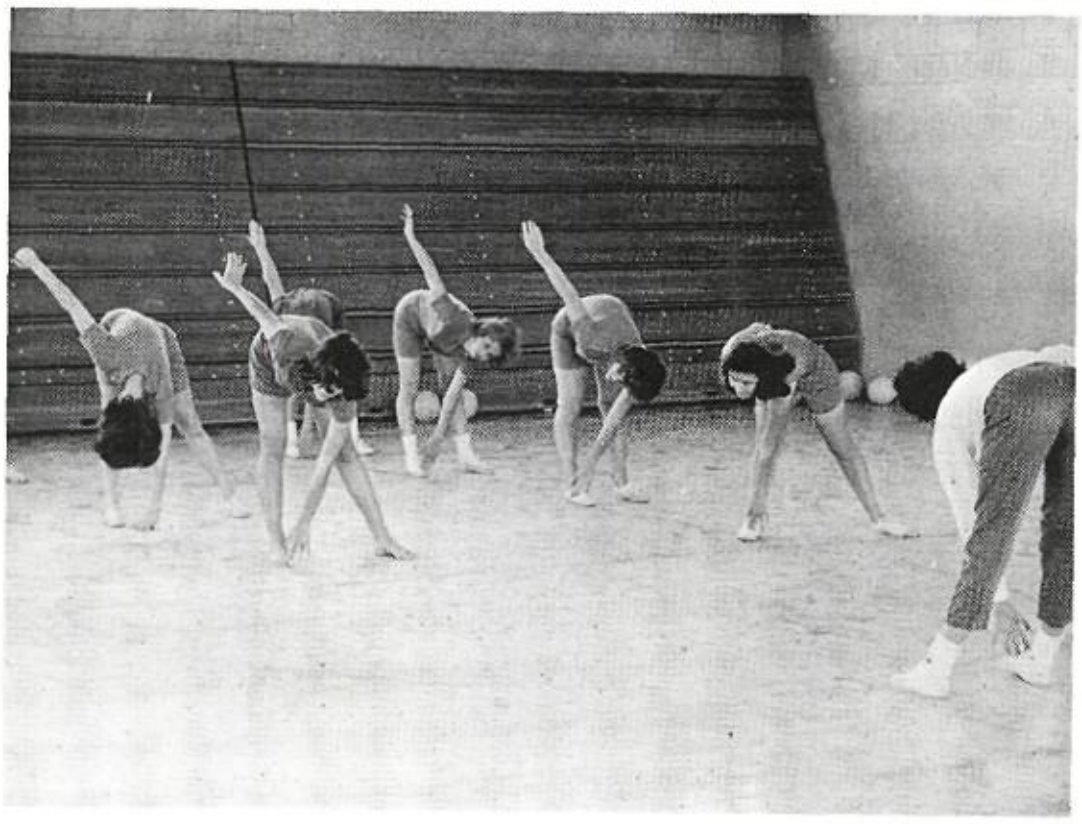
. . . Learn From the World Around Them

As humanity progresses, it is demanded of the student to explore the world around him. To acquire a factual knowledge of mathematics, science and foreign languages is relatively easy, but the real significance of the challenge is in learning to use logic and to organize effectively, thus helping the student to understand his life and its rewards.

Mr. diZerega ponders over his students' grades before making a final decision.

"Pilot to co-pilot . . . " Mrs. Hennessey's Spanish class uses the language lab.

"Watch out! It bites," says Mrs. Williams as she shows a Venus's-flytrap to Robert Clark, John Dordal, and Sandy Powers.

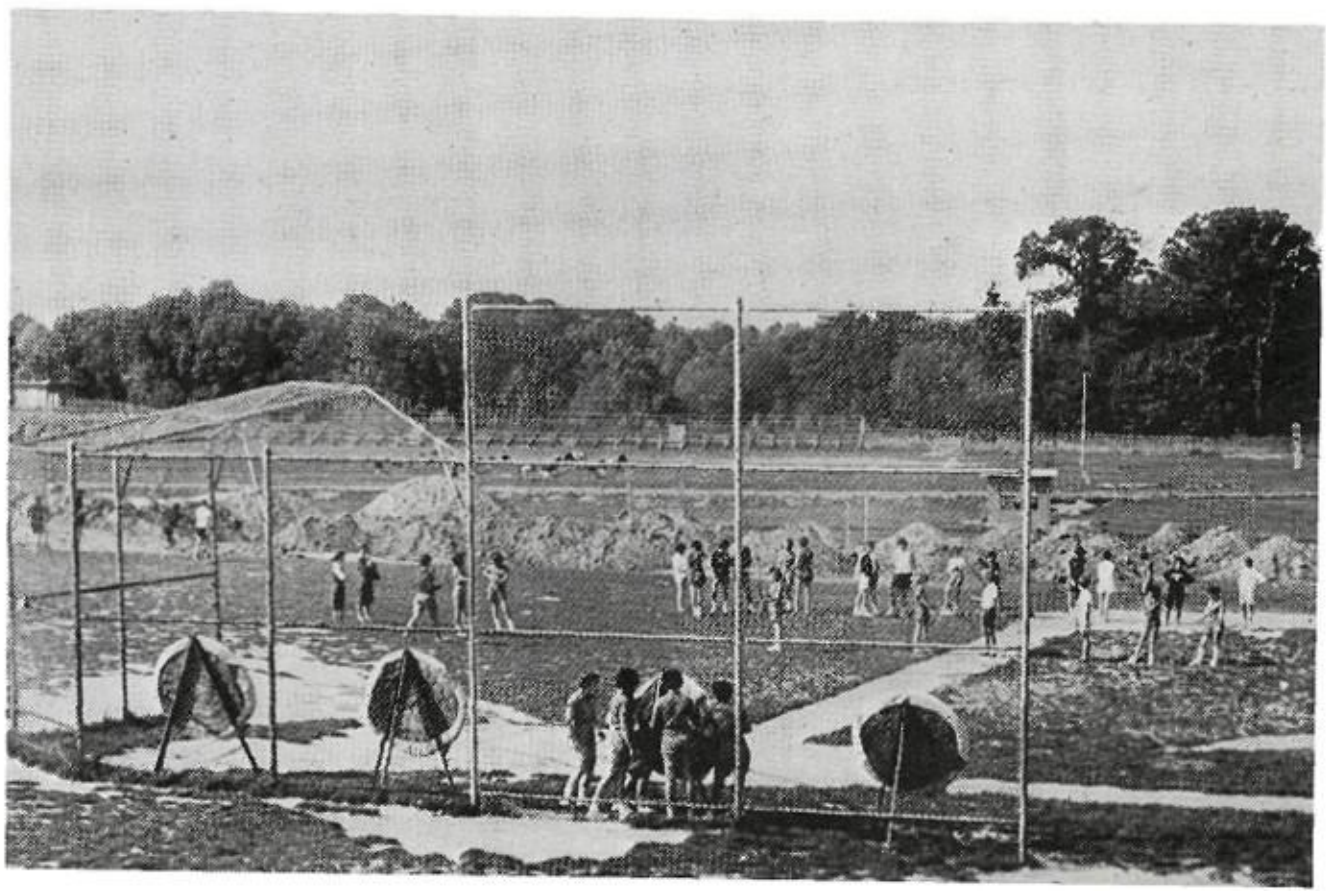


"How much longer do we have to hold this pose?" wonder Dotti Sansbury, Kathi Robey, Susie Burson, Diana Mundell, and Donna Morton as Mrs. Cundiff leads them in exercises.

Bob Masterson performs his feats of skill on the parallel bars.

Physical fitness is necessary for the total development of the individual. The student who follows only intellectual pursuits will never know the pleasure of skillful and strenuous physical effort. Physical education courses challenge the student to know such enjoyment and to realize the maximum state of physical fitness of which he is capable.

. . . Develop Both Mind and Body



The girls in 3rd period gym class set up the targets for an archery session.

The band, under the direction of Mr. Johnson, heightens school spirit at a football game.

. . . Enrich Their

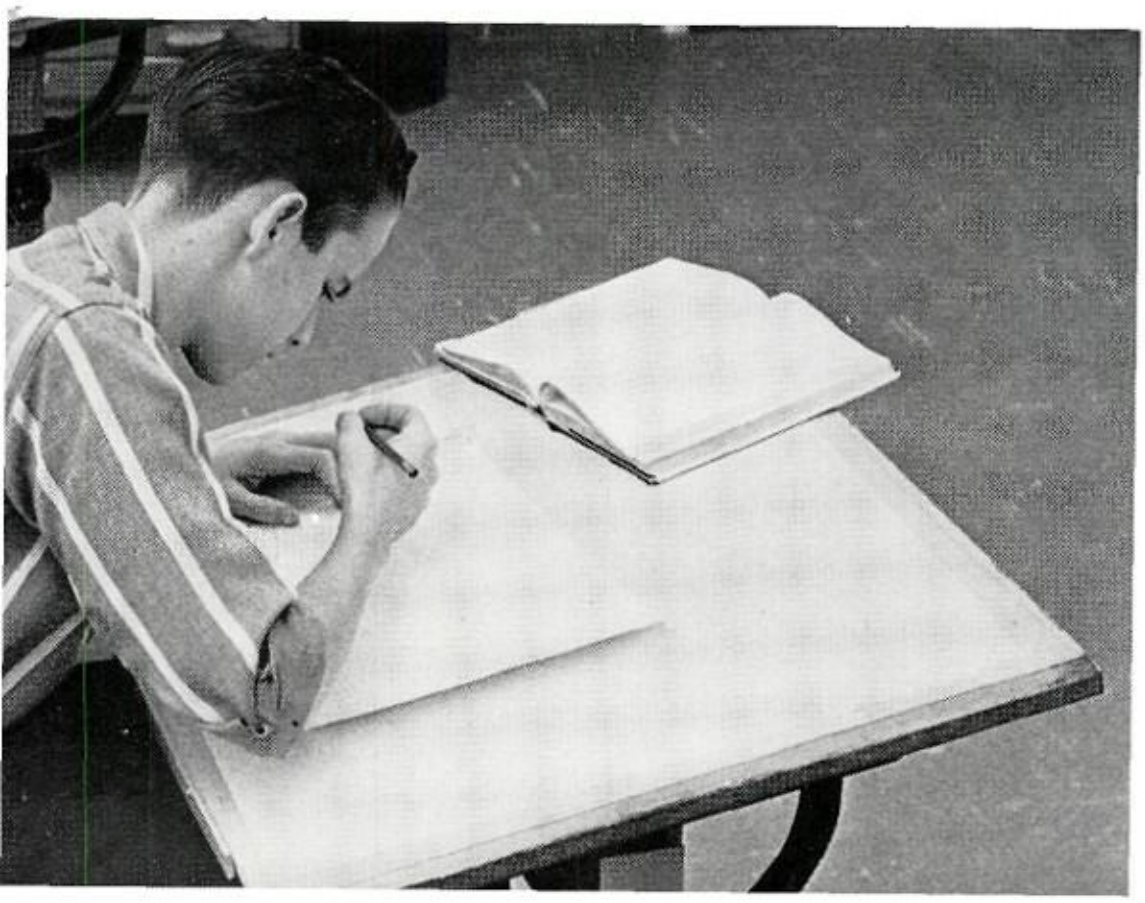
"The next song will be Mary Had a Little Lamb," says Mrs. Bohling to Sue Haas, Judy Smith, and Jerri McMillan.

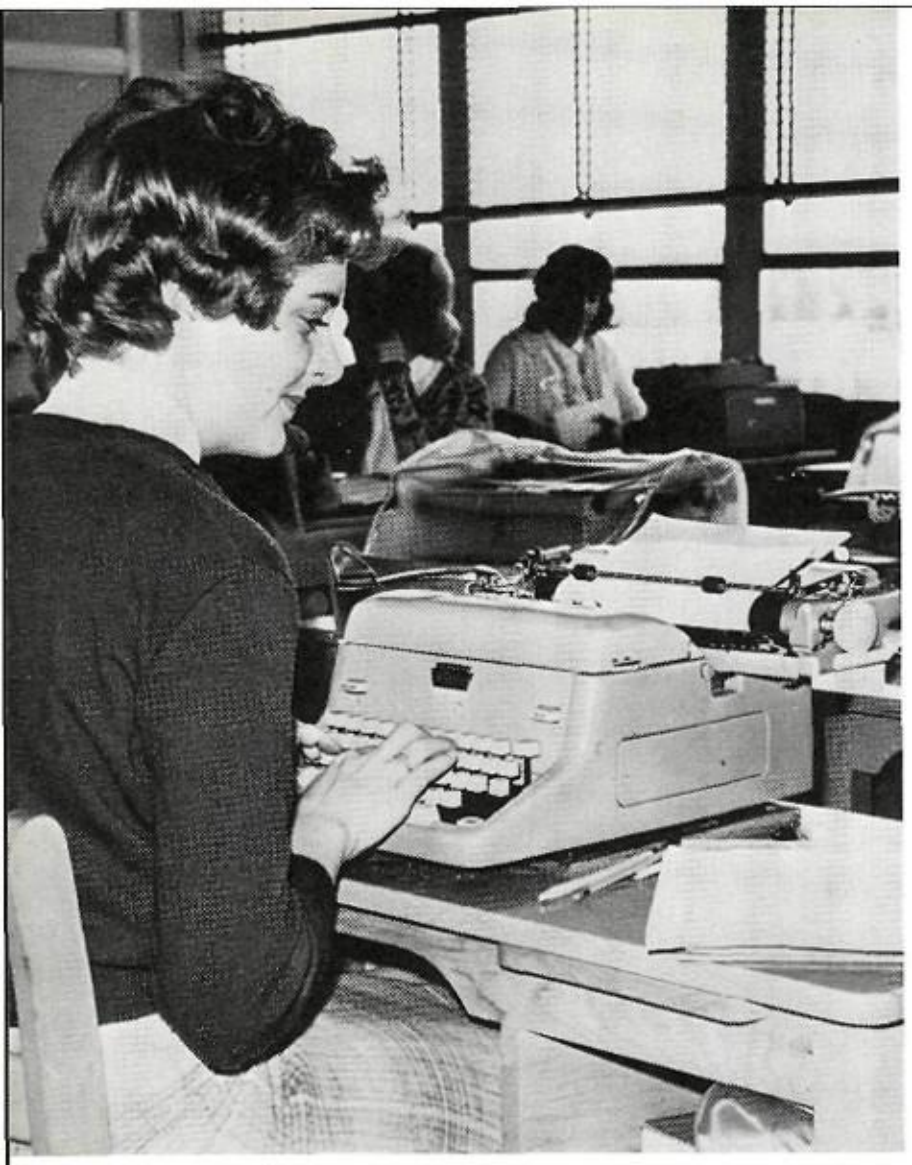
Music and art train the student's mind to seek and appreciate beauty, while offering him an opportunity to develop his expressionistic talents. In later years he may forget the techniques and styles of painting or the sonatas he learned, but he will continue to search for the more refined pleasures in life.

Mary Winchester prepares to paint.

Lives With Beauty

"Doggone! The lead broke again!" Bob Tagert works on his mechanical drawing project.





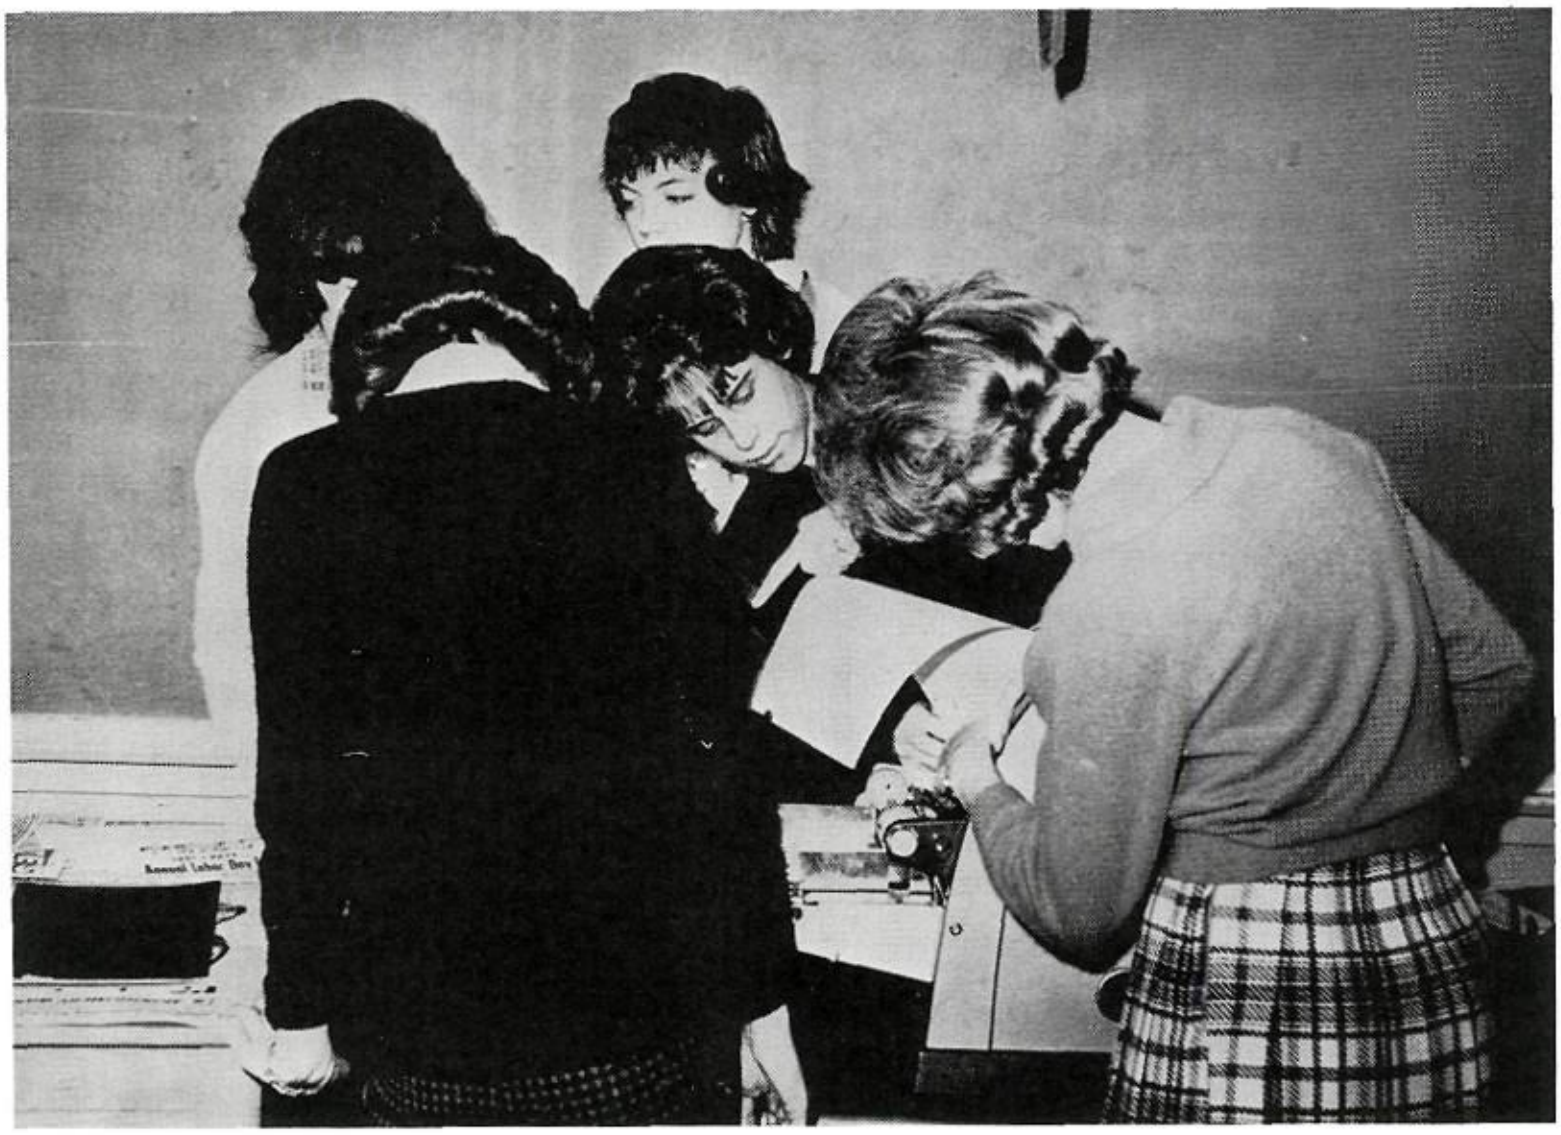
Peggy Coote is determined not to look at the keys as she types in typing class.

Preparing for a career in industrial arts, business, or homemaking helps to round out the scope of experiences the student is challenged to meet.

The graduate has profited from all the experiences offered him in the high school. He has accepted the challenge to use what he has learned to build what began as merely an existence into a complete and meaningful life.

. . . and Prepare for a More Rewarding Future

"Are you sure this is the way?" asks Carol Sienuta, as Sandi Drogowski, Alicia Anderson, Kathy Rubens, and Sue Smith assist in running off the daily bulletin.



"They say it's cheaper this way," thinks Linda Guzy as she rips out another seam.

Mr. Cullen, demonstrates proper use of the tape recorder to his industrial arts students.

To the Guidance Department We Proudly Dedicate the 1963 Clipper's Log

The only department in the school which can truly treat the student as an individual is the Guidance department. Guidance counseling, a response to a need, offers the counselors a satisfaction, making counseling an experience rather than a job.

Oxon Hill wishes to thank the members of the Guidance staff for the wonderful work they have done to help us. To them we proudly dedicate the 1963 CLIPPER'S LOG.

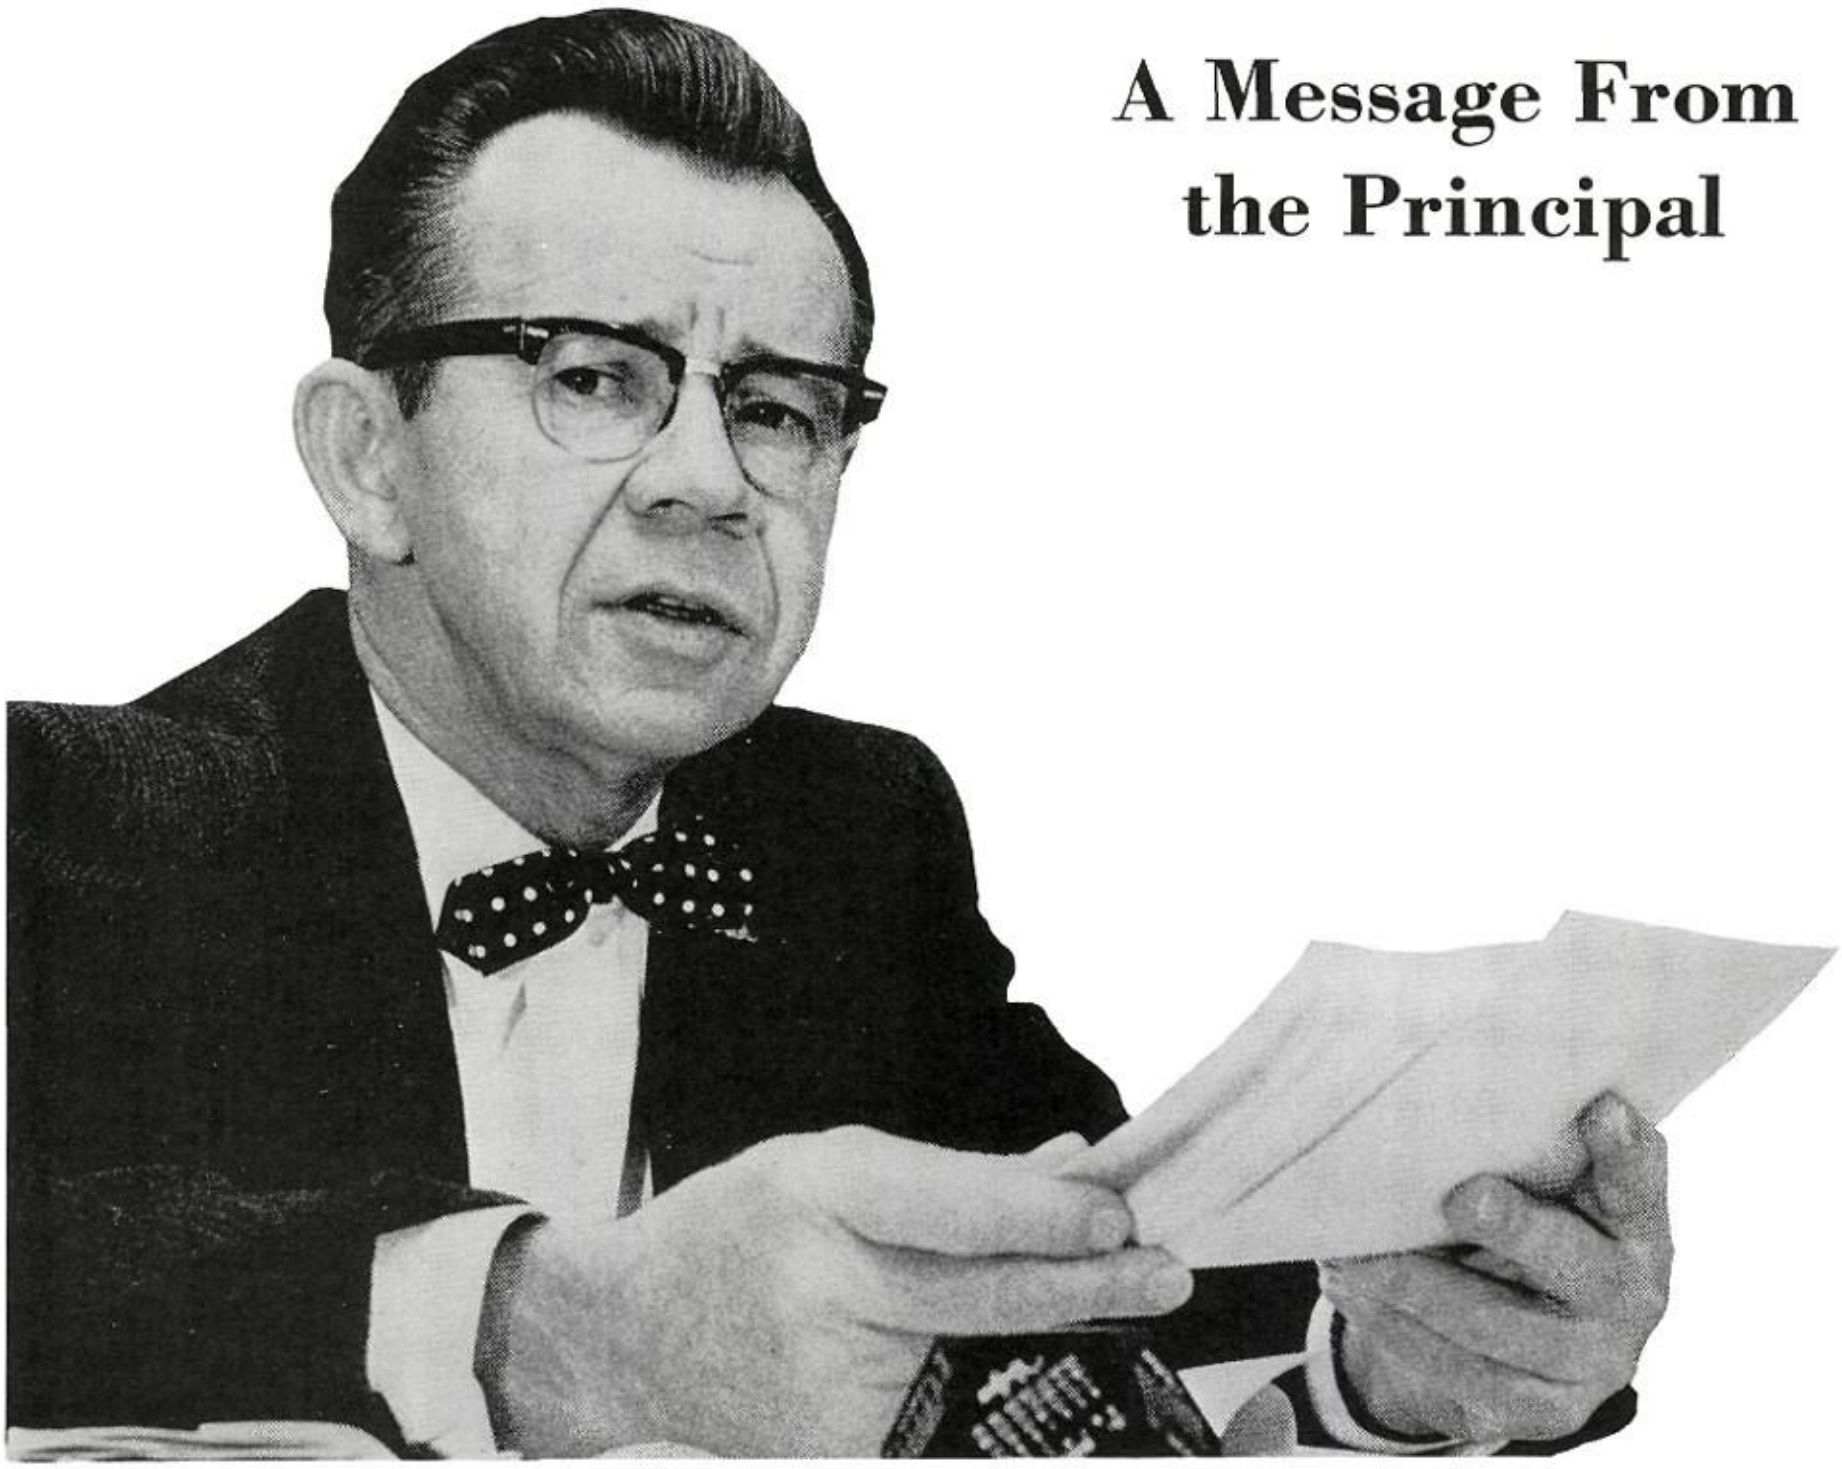
A Message From the Principal



As you terminate your formal association with Oxon Hill Senior High School, your mind and heart will be filled with mixed emotions. You will think of many activities in which you took part: the clubs to which you belonged, the dances you attended, the seminars, concerts, plays, athletic contests, and all the other activities that helped to make your life more pleasant and more meaningful while a student at Oxon Hill. These are the things of your immediate recall. They cause emotions and memories that time will dim with each passing year. These things cause you sorrow, but only for the present.

I would prefer that you take the long view of your experiences at Oxon Hill. Yes, you will have lasting memories of this school, but they will not be the ones that give you sorrow for the moment. They will be broader memories and I hope much brighter memories.

Your recall in years to come will be your personal image of the school. This image will include the atmosphere of the school: the kinds of associations you had with other students and with your teachers, the kind of educational atmosphere that was in the school and the extent to which it helped you to do your best, the kind of teachers you had, and the democratic structure that permitted you to develop and to work and play at your own will without regimentation.

Your long-range image of the school is the one that gives the school its name in the community. This broader image is a much brighter side to think about at graduation time because it will always give you pleasant memories, and I hope will always make you proud that you were one of us at Oxon Hill Senior High.

"Time cools, time clarifies . . . ."

Michael E. Hernick

Administration

Administrators Set Educational Trend

The principal of a senior high school must have capable assistants in order that the school run effectively and efficiently. The Vice Principals, Mr. Woodburn and Mr. Kirkland, have contributed much time and effort to improving student-faculty relations.

Mr. Woodburn reads the afternoon's announcements.

Mr. Kirkland participates at the bonfire.

Versatile Secretaries Perform Various Tasks

The office staff is made up of four secretaries who contribute to the efficient running of Oxon Hill. These women are Mrs. Vawter and Mrs. Stocklinski who work in the main office; Mrs. Smith, who works in the guidance office, and Mrs. Hooper, who handles the financial end of the school business.

Mary Foote and Pat Fela, commercial students planning to become secretaries, help Mrs. Vawter in the office for on-the-job experience.

Students Receive Expert Guidance

Guidance, as an integral part of the total educational program, deals with the philosophical and psychological aspect of education. Counselors help the students with personal, vocational and educational problems. They assist in the selection of courses according to the students' interests and abilities, with special emphasis on requirements for educational and vocational training beyond high school. Along with the teachers and administration, they render a series of services to the student to prepare him to face the challenges which he will meet throughout his life.

Miss Raum listens to the problems of one of her Juniors.

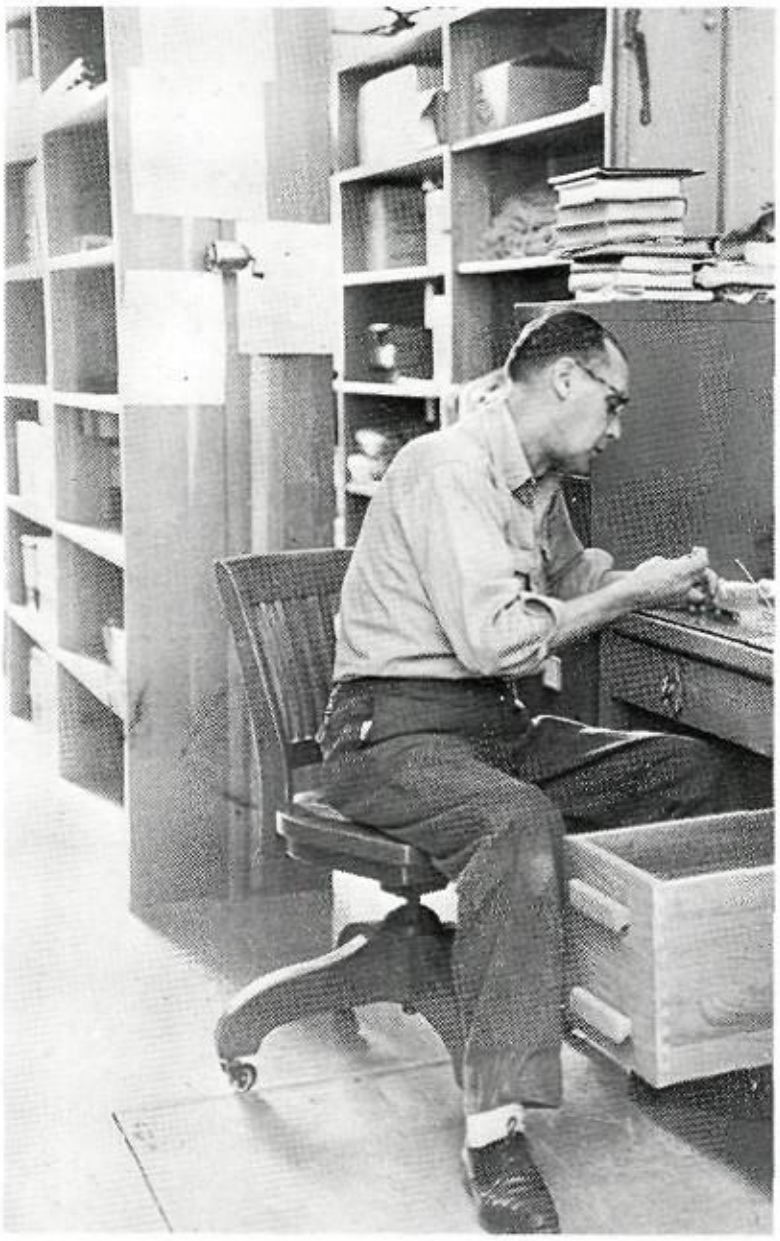
Custodians and Cafeteria Workers Create Pleasant Atmosphere

Faced with the Herculean task of keeping a large senior high school clean, the custodial crew operates quietly, quickly, and efficiently. The cafeteria staff works diligently to prepare approximately one thousand lunches daily. These people work behind the scenes to create a pleasant atmosphere conducive to learning.



The head custodian, Mr. Pyles, examines the contents of his office desk.

Mrs. Claspell, Oxon Hill's cafeteria manager, poses for the CLIPPER'S LOG photographer in the school kitchen.

Basis of Study

The English department offers each student opportunities for discovery in the fields of composition and literature. Because it is the language we speak, English challenges the student to think and helps him to learn to express his thoughts so that others may be aware of his ideas. A conception of English literature enables a student to find a definite picture of many abstract ideas. Through literature, also, the student learns to choose books stimulating to his intellect and even find an objective expression of his own problems.

Sciences Stimulate Curiosity

Within the last decade there has been a special focus placed on science and mathematics. It is felt that these important subjects have not been stressed sufficiently in the past. At Oxon Hill High School the teaching staff gives greater emphasis to more advanced instruction in the science and mathematics fields. Highly intelligent and gifted students are taught to be objective in their reasoning. The most imaginative must put in extra effort to solve difficult problems. Experiments are carried out with the utmost accuracy. As a result, graduating students will be among the leaders in science and mathematics.

Students Look Anew at an Old World

History, a study of man and his actions in the past; geography, a study of the land; and problems of democracy, are the courses taught in the social studies department. Yet, history is more than a study of the past. Through history, students are challenged to apply the facts of a bygone era to the present day world. Geography, more than a study of the land, inspires students to learn more about people and customs of foreign lands. The problems of democracy course resists strict definition; through the study of this class, students are given an incentive to make this form of government survive so that future generations may be free to meet the challenge of life as they see fit.

New Languages Introduce New Cultures

When a student begins the study of a foreign language, he is impressed with the romance and color of the distant land. As he learns basic grammar and vocabulary, the personality of the country becomes apparent. Delving deeper into the language, he encounters its history and civilization. In each of these three steps he faces a challenge and an ultimate goal.

The first challenge is basic. It includes learning grammar and vocabulary so that the student can use the language more freely. The second is the applying of this knowledge to the people and their customs. One of the most important and most frequently overlooked branches of study is the benefits of these people's creativity and imagination, their gifts to the world's literature, science, art and music.

Accepting these three challenges and following them through to their common goal will bring the student the mastery of a foreign language.

Success in the business world is a goal for commercial students. Studying closely with competent instructors, students develop skills which give them a basis of support for working toward this goal. Physical education is the phase of learning which promotes physical fitness. Under the instruction and direction of physical education teachers, students develop body co-ordination. Participation in challenging activities lends to students a sense of accuracy, co-ordination, and alertness. Many students are capable of participating in a sport, but to play well is accomplished through ambition and practice. Thus the "activities are but tools and means to an end and not an end in themselves."

Art and Music Encourage Talent

The desire to express thoughts and ideas can be found in each individual. By using methods such as lines or melody one can not only fulfill his desire to express and create, but he presents these things to the world, thereby enriching the lives of others. Applying theories of symmetry, balance, and movement he increases the value of his creation. Sculpting, painting, and sketching are some of the skills a student learns in art classes. He acquires a greater appreciation of music through listening, playing, or singing. During the past year students have sampled the inner beauty of art and music, yet the enjoyment does not end when a student leaves school. To appreciate the creations of others as well as his own, the student must seek the very essence of these subjects. His goal is to learn to become a better judge of the subtle as well as of the more obvious qualities which appear in his environment.

Mr. Lynn, the class sponsor, and John O'Pray, president, discuss senior business.

Senior Class

Our class of 1963 began its last year at Oxon Hill with high spirits and anticipation. Walking up the front walk under the portico we felt confident, full of spirit, almost arrogant in our Senior year—not the same person who twelve years before had walked into his first school building feeling timid, afraid and wanting to run. The excitement of our Senior year started with the election of class officers. John O'Pray, as president, oversaw all Senior activities and headed the executive committee; vice-president, Mike Henry, kept track of the work of the class committees; Frank Stainback, treasurer, handled all of the class dues and paid the bills; recording secretary, Charlotte McPherson, kept the minutes of the executive meetings and corresponding secretary, Sue O'Brien, prepared the weekly activity lists and took care of all correspondence.

December 1 marked the beginning of the College Board examinations. Preparing for college or future careers took up much of the senior's time. March brought the announcement of the members of the Top Ten Scholastic Society. The last dance, the Senior Prom, was made an evening to remember by the romance of spring and the colorful array of formals. But all too soon we were listening to the Class Will and Prophecy on Class Day. Taking our places on graduation day we closed the door behind us on a way of life which will influence us as long as we live.

Sophomore Studies

Through the Student Council assembly held in November, students gained an insight into the workings of the organization as well as having a fuller appreciation for the Student Council's existence.

Summer Memories Remain

The cheerleaders lead the students in "Two Bits" at the first pep rally held on September 27.

Basketball season was greeted enthusiastically as the cheerleaders gave a pep rally to introduce the team.

Boosting school and team spirit at sports events is the cheerleaders' main purpose, but this year they have gone beyond these limits to encourage students to support the athletic functions. They sponsored a record hop, sold Clipper buttons and pom pom shakers at the games. They also held four pep rallies to introduce the teams.

The bonfire helped to increase school spirit before the Homecoming game with DuVal.

Spirits soar as high as the flames at the first bonfire Oxon Hill has ever had.

Homecoming Week Enlivens Fall Season

A class color day opened Homecoming week this year as the first of several spirited days leading up to the Homecoming game with DuVal Senior High. Student appreciation and Teacher appreciation days, along with a Black and Gold day, added to the excitement on the eve of the game.

When game time finally came, the stands filled with anxious spectators waiting to see the Clippers battle DuVal's Tigers. Halftime brought forth a parade of decorated cars and floats with the Art Club winning first place in the float competition. Adding also to the days' festivities was the presence of the Homecoming court.

Though the afternoon was darkened by the Clipper's defeat, spirits were revived later that evening for those who attended the Student Council's "Pigskin Ball" where Doreen Shaddix was officially crowned Homecoming Queen.

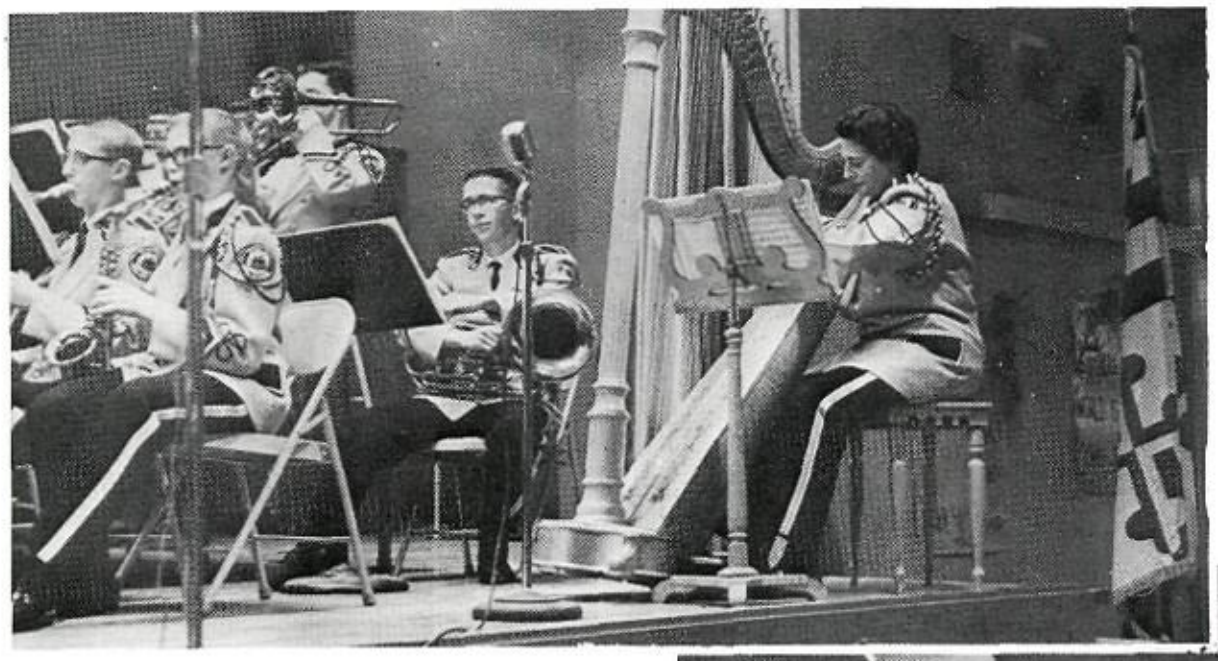
The Art Club won first place in the float contest with their cheerleader of "Victory."

Members of the court from the Junior Class were Diann Green, Hjordis Barrett, Ann Cooper, and Terry Wise.

The audience waits expectantly as Mr. Johnson prepares to start the first band concert of the year: the Pops Concert.

The band's "Pops Concert," studded with many Broadway melodies, was played to a full house. Adding another success to its already lengthy list, our band completed another magnificent performance, which included solos and quartets from dixieland jazz to light opera. The audience, ranging from babies to oldsters, thoroughly enjoyed themselves; but, if the truth be told, the band had the most fun.

Musical Season Begins



The sound of the harp, played by Miss Ceo, gives the concert an added attraction.

"A success!" Mr. Johnson and the band smile as they listen to the applause at the end of a selection.

Students Display Their Abilities

Students taking the PSAT and students giving a tea have one thing in common, they all are exhibiting natural and developed skills. Through the PSAT, students prove to themselves their capabilities and possible further talents. Home economics students prepare foods and favors with the skills they have acquired and those which come naturally. In this manner, they prove the worth of their training in cookery, social graces, and sewing.

Oxon Hill Goes Pro

In the spring of 1962 The Mikado, a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, was produced by the chorus and additional members of the Oxon Hill student body. Under the musical direction of Mrs. Gertrude Bohling, the play was a fine success. Colorful costuming, delightful music, and talent shown in the students' acting added to the appealing quality of the presentation.

Outstanding Students Are Honored

The members of the Top Ten are: First row: S. Idol, H. Pessagno, D. Huddleston, M. Cambell, G. Isaksen, E. Embrey, J. Maxey, K. Handegard, C. Robbins, L. Clark, M. Hennessy, L. Oxon Hill's chapter of the National Honor Society helped with the Book Fair, manned the Lost and Found, and counted students' letter point totals. Besides the two induction ceremonies, they assisted the faculty whenever dependable help was needed. Achieving height in scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and service were the goals for the students to meet in order to become a member of the Honor Society. Seniors were inducted in the fall and Juniors in the spring.

The thirty-nine members of the Top Ten Percent were selected according to scholastic records from the last five semesters of senior high school. The students were honored at a dinner and an assembly.

Pearls of Wisdom

The fluttering delicacy of a Geisha girl, the shy charm of a young captain, the comical wisdom of an aged interpreter graced the stage early in November when the Drama Club staged John Patrick's comedy, The Teahouse of the August Moon. With the experience of frequent rehearsals, the actors turned in a precise, co-ordinated performance. The production was directed by Miss Roberta Hughes.

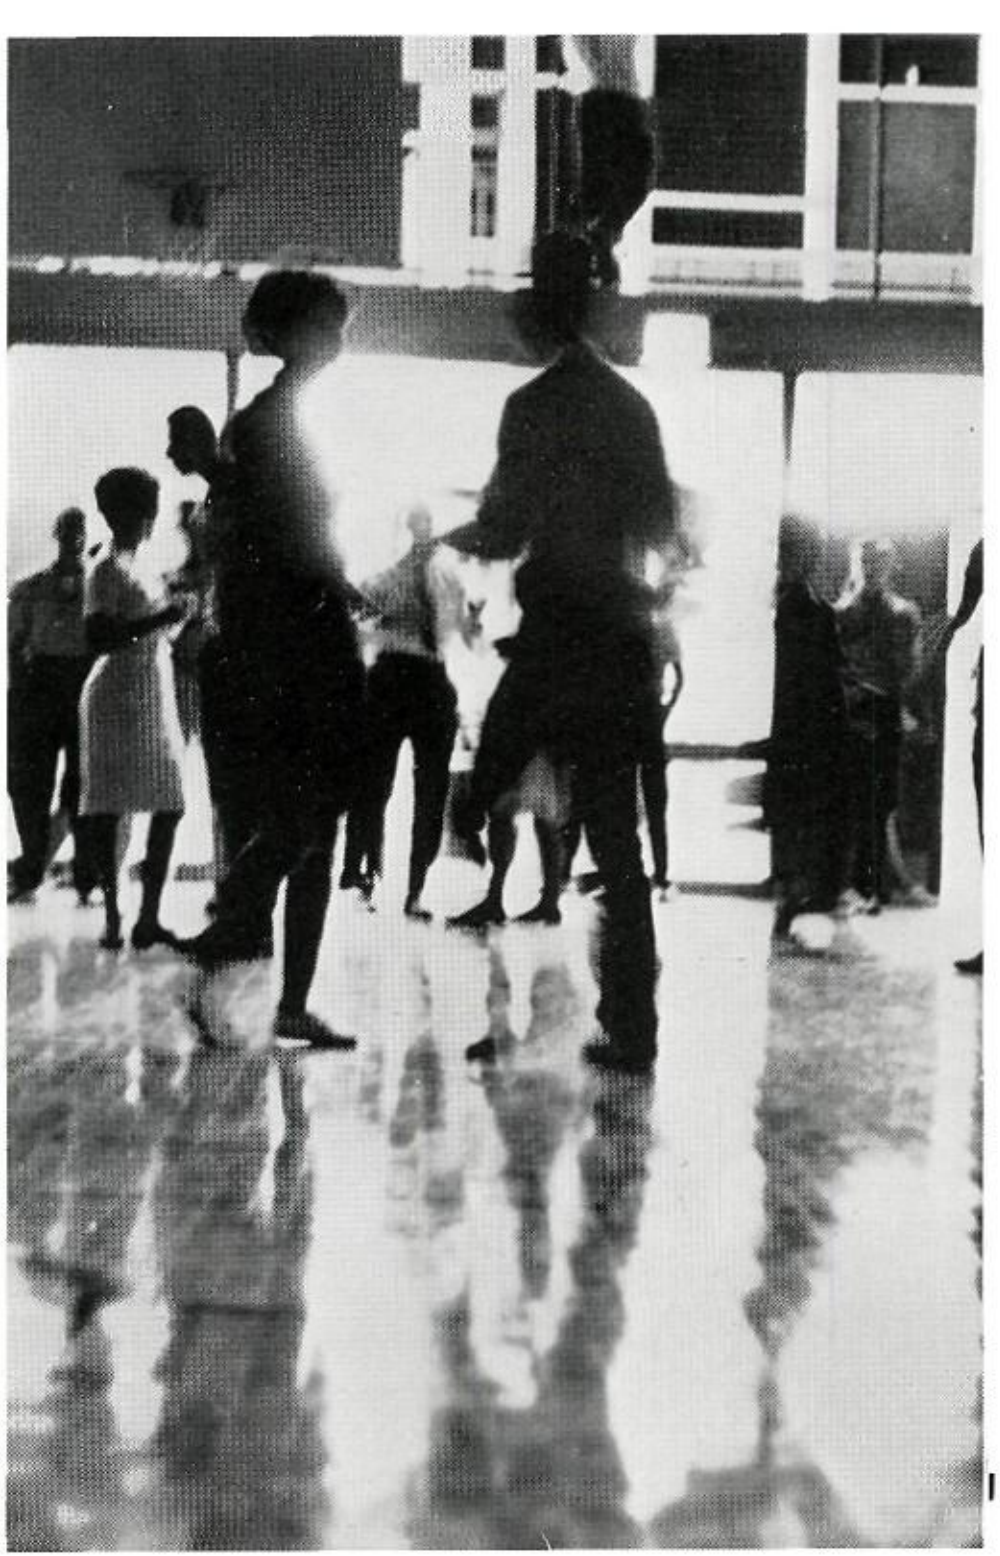
Let's Get Acquainted

The school social year got off to a good start with the "Get Acquainted" hop sponsored by the Lettermen. The informal atmosphere of the gym made it easy for the newcomers and the old timers of Oxon Hill to meet and to form new friendships.



"Poetry in Motion" . . . Carrying out the idea that the old and new should mix, the Lettermen's hop featured the "oldies but goodies" as well as the newer hits.

Soft lights, dreamy music, and pink and white decorations helped Mr. Cupid set the romantic mood at Cupid's Carnival. The sophomore class sponsored the dance. The music subtly romantic and provocative, was played by the Crescendos, a local band group.

The queen's court assembled for the coronation of Miss Cupid. The royal celebrities and their escorts are: Conrad Schreiber and Valerie Kessee, Donna Branscomb and Marc Wurzbacher, Queen Merry Choven and Mike Livingston, Terry Portu and Bob Smith.

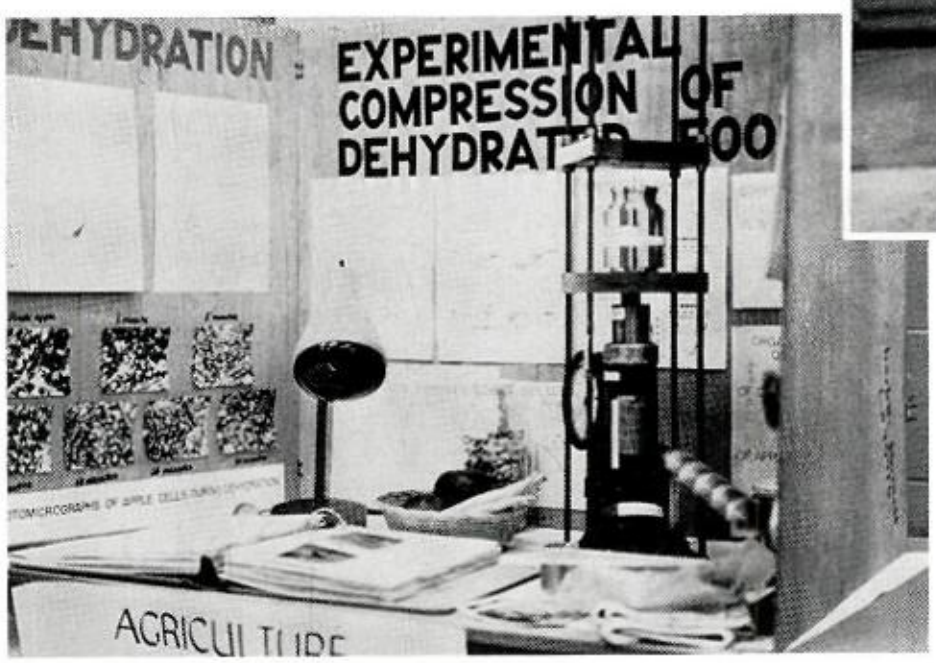
The Honor Society and the Library Club worked together on the Book Fair. The clubs' goal was to furnish the library with over a hundred new books by selling these books to students or classes, parents and school organizations. Success was acclaimed when the goal was reached at the March PTA meeting as the one hundred and first book was sold.

Cathy Boswell tries to decide which book she would like the library to have.

FAIRS ADD INTEREST TO SCHOOL LIFE

Oxon Hill's annual Science Fair was held on March third and fourth. Each of the projects exhibited scientific thought and a great amount of work and ability by the student. Grand prize winners were: first, Charlotte Burnett; second, Robert Sandgkoski; third, James Kenny; and fourth, Mike Schulman. Several of the entrants displayed their projects in the County Science Fair at the University of Maryland.

"No, you can't have any of my ice cream," says Nancy Peters as she arranges her Science Fair project.



A lot of painstaking work goes into the Science Fair projects as can be seen in this first grand prize winner by Charlotte Burnett.

At a dinner sponsored by the P.T.A. for the thirty-nine members of the Top Ten and their parents, was Mr. George Robinson, Assistant Superintendent of Prince George's County schools who spoke on the "Pursuit of Excellence." Certificates were awarded at the dinner. Gold pins were given out during an assembly held the next week. At the assembly the band played the "1812 Overture." The Concert Choir presented vocal selections from the operetta, Kiss Me Kate, and the chorus sang spiritual selections.

Nancy Goddard sang before the choir as part of the program at the assembly.

Concert Choir Presents

On March 29 and 30, the Oxon Hill Senior High Concert Choir presented Cole Porter's operetta, Kiss Me Kate. Under the direction of Mrs. Gertrude Bohling and Miss Roberta Hughes, the participating students planned and rehearsed for several months. The precision of the choreography, the delightful humor of the dialogue, and the dramatic and vocal abilities of the members of the cast all contributed to the merit of the performance. Through the cooperation of those involved in the technical work, the publicity, the ticket sales, and the presentation itself, Kiss Me Kate was a fine success.

The parade through Southlawn announced the opening of the Carnival.

The highlight of the Carnival took place as Bill Scott crowned Beverlee Salome queen.

On a sunny day last April a parade, complete with clowns, horseback riders, and princesses, marched through Southlawn. Disbanding at the school, it marked the start of our 1962 Carnival, which financed the Foreign Exchange program. Throughout the morning and afternoon club-sponsored booths awarded many prizes, including a large stuffed dog. Late in the afternoon the climax was reached as Beverlee Salome was crowned queen of the event. This year the members of the court from Oxon Hill Senior High were: Carol Darmstead, Sophomore; Ann Cooper, Junior; and Mariolina Barrili, Senior.

Walk Together,

The American Field Service is an open door which leads to understanding and friendship among the peoples of the world. Through this open door, pass students from more than 2,000 towns for a school-year of study and first-hand experience and American teen-agers from practically every state to study and live with families abroad—a two-way exchange of seeing and showing. In this way, young citizens of the world learn to recognize and to respect the similarities and differences of those who, though they live in different countries, have dreams and efforts similarly directed toward the goal of a peaceful and useful life."

The AFS assembly on March 19, gave the students of Oxon Hill a better understanding of the values of the American Field Service.

MARIOLINA BARILLI

Foreign Exchange student from Porma, Italy.

Often the most difficult thing is just to find the words that express thanks. I would like to find, right now, the most wonderful words to thank my American family, the Brighams, for their hospitality and love, and you, the students of Oxon Hill, who in this school, so new and different from my own, have helped me in this wonderful experience; an experience that has given me the most interesting year of my life.

The American Field Service tries to find suitable families for the Americans who go abroad; my families surpassed the adjective "suitable."

Because of the Procopiadis and Papanicolaou families, and AFS, I was able to learn first-hand of many different aspects of Greek life—their customs, ideals, interests, and problems.

The summer of 1962 was, and will be, the most wonderful of my life.

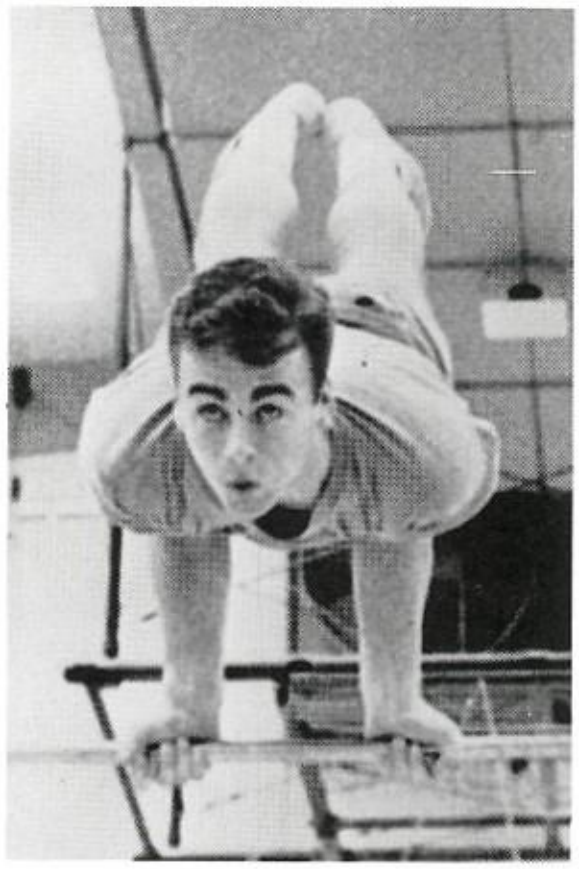
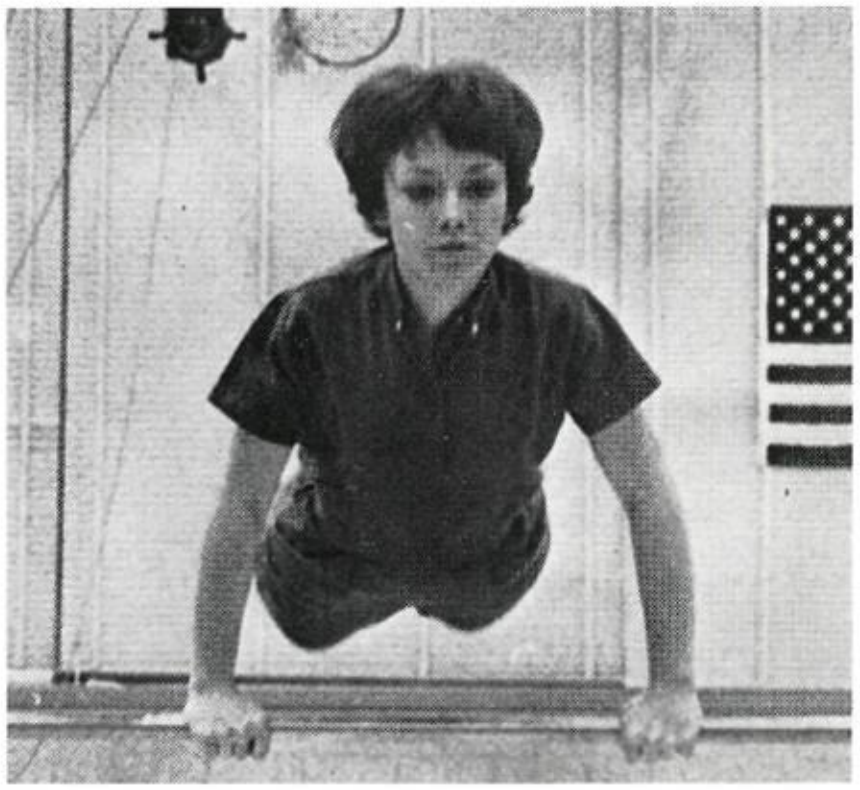
All Sports Night Emphasizes Ability

Sore muscles, bruises, and exhaustion were common complaints as members of the physical education classes prepared for All Sports Night. Novelty and Apparatus exhibition were presented with both team and individual competitions. Points were then assigned to the winner's class. The Seniors won with 232 points, then Sophomores with 101 points, and last Juniors with 91 points. The crowning of a king, Joe Waters, and a queen, Diana Mundell, who were elected by the physical education classes, brought the annual event to a close.



Much skill and strength was required for Jim Lacy to win the horizontal bat competition.



Agility and timing on the horizontal bar put Diane Green in first place.

After being crowned king and queen, Joe Waters and Diana Mundell promenade around the gym.

Sophomores and Juniors battle it out in push ball, one of the rougher contests in All Sports Night.

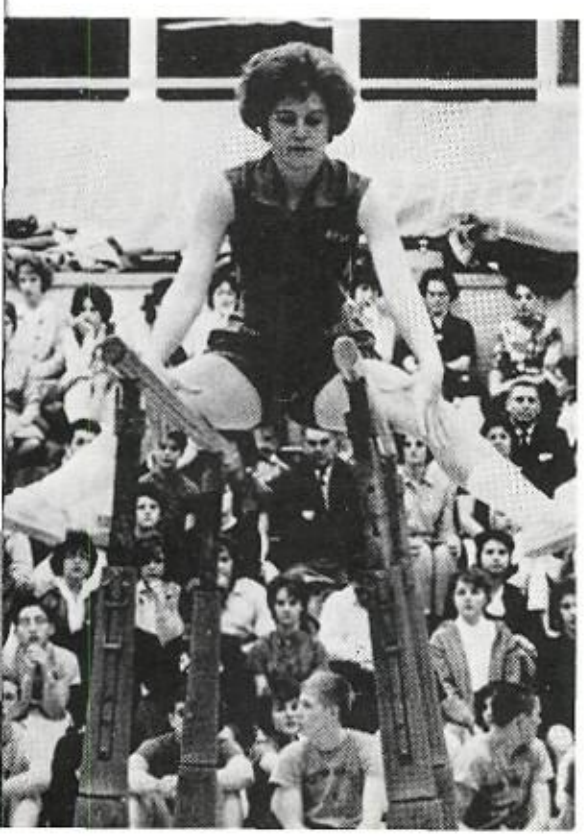
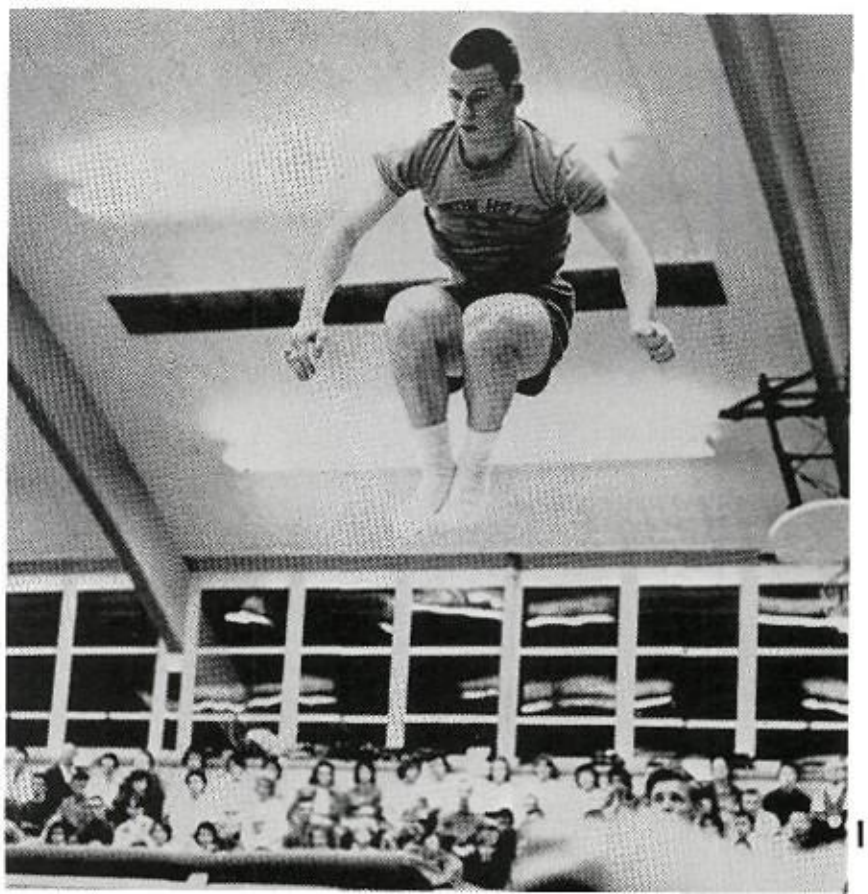
In the apparatus exhibitions, Carol Frances placed first on the side horse.

A skilled and steady performance on the balance beam rendered Dottie Sansbury the winner.

A good old-fashioned pie eating contest let Dave Morgan demonstrate a favorite skill—eating.



Senior Linda Rasch earned a second place after a practiced performance on the parallel bars.



Springing high into the air, Alan Harry bounced to a second place on the trampoline.

As they try to get the ball, Kenny Lima, Mr. Vest, and Alan Reulet find that donkeys are as stubborn as mules.

Faculty Wins Donkey Fiasco

Despite a valiant effort, the Seniors in keeping with the tradition lost the Junior-Senior game to the Juniors, 47 to 46.

The gymnasium was packed with students, parents, and friends, the red bucket was armed (by Scott Hunter), and the donkeys were ready at this year's donkey basketball fiasco. On one team were the Lettermen and on the opposing side was the men's faculty. Proving that all is not right on the back of a mule, the faculty turned the tables on the Lettermen by winning 14 to 6.

"But you said it was my turn to have the ball," says Mike Boaz as he tries to get the ball away from Coach Stickney, while Mr. Schwartz gets ready to come to the aid of a fellow faculty member.

Activities

Service Is Not Always on the Scene

As students rushed through their days at Oxon Hill, they no doubt encountered classmates who were members of service organizations.

Library Club members assisted in checking out books and reference materials.

The Student Council demonstrated the principles of democracy through its excellent leaders and qualified representatives.

Members of the Traffic Squad were invaluable in keeping the busy halls uncongested so that students could reach their classes quickly.

As the day progressed further, students could see Helmsmen dashing around the school, laden with chairs in preparation for a school assembly or other activity.

School Bank workers encouraged students to show financial responsibility by depositing money in the school bank.

The Stage Crew solved technical problems, managed electrical equipment, and set up props for school events.

Members of the National Honor Society were selected for their good character, high scholastic achievement, invaluable service, and strong leadership.

Civil Air Patrol volunteers play a vital role in the life of our country. In the past years their service and dedication to duty have saved hundreds of lives and guided thousands of young people toward useful and productive activity.

Clubs Provide for the Future

There are several clubs at Oxon Hill which prepare students for a career.

Those interested in health and nursing may join the Future Nurses of America.

The Future Homemakers of America "strengthen education for future goals." This year the group adopted an orphan as part of a nation-wide project.

The Future Business Leaders have strived to meet their goal: to develop competent, aggressive, business leaders, and to create more interest and intelligent planning toward a career.

Members of the Future Teachers study present and proposed methods of instruction, learn of the advantages and responsibilities of the teaching profession, and listen to distinguished speakers from various fields of education.

Arts Are for the Development of Talent

In the Art Club, members improved and displayed their abilities as exhibited by the many posters and other artwork which decorated the halls.

Probing deeper into the intricacies of photography, plate-making, and presswork, members of the Graphic Arts Club discovered new methods and techniques as they took an avid interest in their various crafts.

Students at Oxon Hill who were enthused with the many fields of science found membership in the Science Club a rewarding experience.

Members of the Debate Team organized material either pro or con about a problem, presented the facts logically, and rebutted their opponents' information.

Movies, slides, and discussions rounded out the Bible Club's program. Informal meetings were often held to increase a student's knowledge of the Good Book.

Outstanding high school journalists were honored by being selected for membership in the Quill and Scroll. Other interested students attended meetings and helped to publish the literary magazine, Out of the Inkpot.

Logic, patience, and skill helped the Chess Club members to organize their thoughts and moves.

The Concert Choir, a class for the first time, presented an operetta, Kiss Me Kate. This experience of performing musically enabled the students to understand more fully the field of music.

Directed by Mrs. Bohling, the Girls Chorus met as a class during the year and performed at many school activities.

The Orchestra, now in its second year, met twice weekly to rehearse for its numerous programs.

Sports Complete Activities

As students develop intellectual abilities, they discover their capacity for learning has increased. This is also true of their physical abilities. The various athletic clubs at Oxon Hill challenge students to develop this potential and to co-ordinate their minds and bodies through a well-rounded program.

The Tri-Hi-Y and the Hi-Y are Christian organizations which engage in athletic activities as well as civic and social functions.

While giving girls a sound knowledge of many kinds of sports, the Girls' Athletic Association develops skill and co-ordination through participation in intramural games.

Recognition was given to boys excelling in sports events by the Lettermen's Club.

The Bowling Club met weekly for competitive matches, awarding trophies for high scorers.

EDITORIAL STAFF MEMBERS: L. Clark, S. Rodriguez, B. Hale, M. Mitchell, B. Fattibene, C. Boswell, S. Perry, Mrs. Percy—sponsor and K. Skinner.

REPORTERS: M. Ruchwager, I. Lima, M. Messer, S. Penland, N. Goddard, F. Clarkson, A. Easton, and J. Meier.

Editor of the Searchlight was Linda Clark.

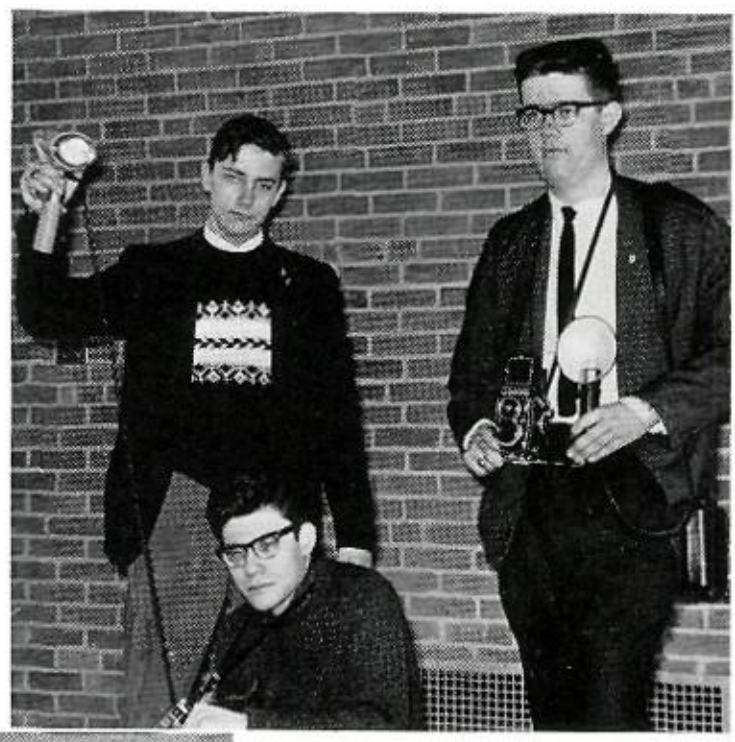
Assistant editor of this years newspaper was Karen Skinner.

Though faced with the many problems of editing the school's newspaper, the Searchlight staff strove arduously to reach their goal improving the newspaper and keeping the student body informed on school activities and affairs. Working to meet each deadline, the members of this class were kept busy gathering news and preparing the layout for the newspaper.

Clipper's Log Records School Year

Co-editors and business personnel meet with Mrs. Ratner to discuss yearbook plans. Clockwise: A. Anderson, P. Coote, S. Klein, C. Robbins, Mrs. Ratner—sponsor, D. Smith, D. Shaddix, and B. Salome.

Journalism photographers Mike Mitchell, and Baron Lyhne have the cameras turned on them for a change. Not pictured is David Ernst.



The goal of a high school yearbook is to successfully record the activities of the year. The Clipper's Log staff reached this objective in the 1963 publication of the annual. Business staff members worked hard to keep finances straight, while the literary staff endeavored to keep the headlines and captions straight. The layout staff worked closely with the photographers in organizing each page for layout.

Literary staff wrote the copy for the annual. J. Loving, S. Butz, C. Ellison, J. Butler, C. Robbins (editor), S. Idol, B. Clark, and K. Rasch.

Karen,
This has been such a wonderful summer having you here & sharing it with you like you did all my friends. It's been a time I'll always treasure & I'm so thankful for the possibility of making it. I hope you have memories to take with you for every one of your friends & for me. I'm so glad you came & I'm sorry you had to leave early. I'll miss you & I know you will too. Don't let the distance keep us apart. Write & call & we'll get together as often as possible. Don't forget to keep in touch & let me know how you're doing. I'll be thinking of you & praying for you. Don't forget to take care of yourself & be careful. I'll miss you & I'll always remember you. Don't forget to

SCOTT HUNTER, End
Senior

In the opener, Oxon Hill lost to High Point, 7-6. The Clipper's drew first blood early in the first period on a three yard plunge by Joe Waters. Scott Hunter was unable to get the kick-off for the extra point, and from then on it was High Point's game.

Frank Olive, senior, looks for a receiver as an Annapolis player heads for him.

Annapolis downed the Clippers, 20-0. At first it looked as if Oxon Hill had found a new plan of attack in the fine passing of quarterback Gary Oden, but the Panthers proved to have a good defense as well as a good offense.

OH won its first game 19-13, in a seesaw battle with Northwestern. The Wildcats scored first, but the Clippers came right back in the second quarter with a 55-yard passing play from Gary Oden to Charlie Bolton for the score.

DAVE CUBBAGE, Second Team
Senior All-County End

The Wildcats scored again to end the first half with a 13-6 lead. In the second half Oxon Hill again came back with another 55-yard drive which ended with Don Keys making the touchdown from the one-yard line. The final score came with a minute and forty seconds left in the game on a 35-yard passing play from quarterback Gary Oden to Don Keys.

In losing the next game 26-7 against tenth-ranked Surrattsville, the Clippers' only bright spot came late in the fourth period on an eleven yard end-sweep by halfback Don Keys.

Oxon Hill, led by the fine running of halfbacks Don Keys and Charlie Bolton, defeated Woodward Prep 39-20.

BOB FATTIBENE, Tackle
Senior

Don Keys gained 121 yards in 11 carries and scored on runs of 1 and 4 yards. Bolton, in his first year of varsity ball, scored on a run of 19 yards and on a 40-yard passing play from quarterback Gary Oden. Oden also threw to Cubbage for a 70-yard touchdown play. Don Shipp picked up the other score on a 40-yard run up the middle.

Homecoming at Oxon Hill was one of great disappointment, as the DuVal Tigers found little resistance in beating the Clippers 20-0.

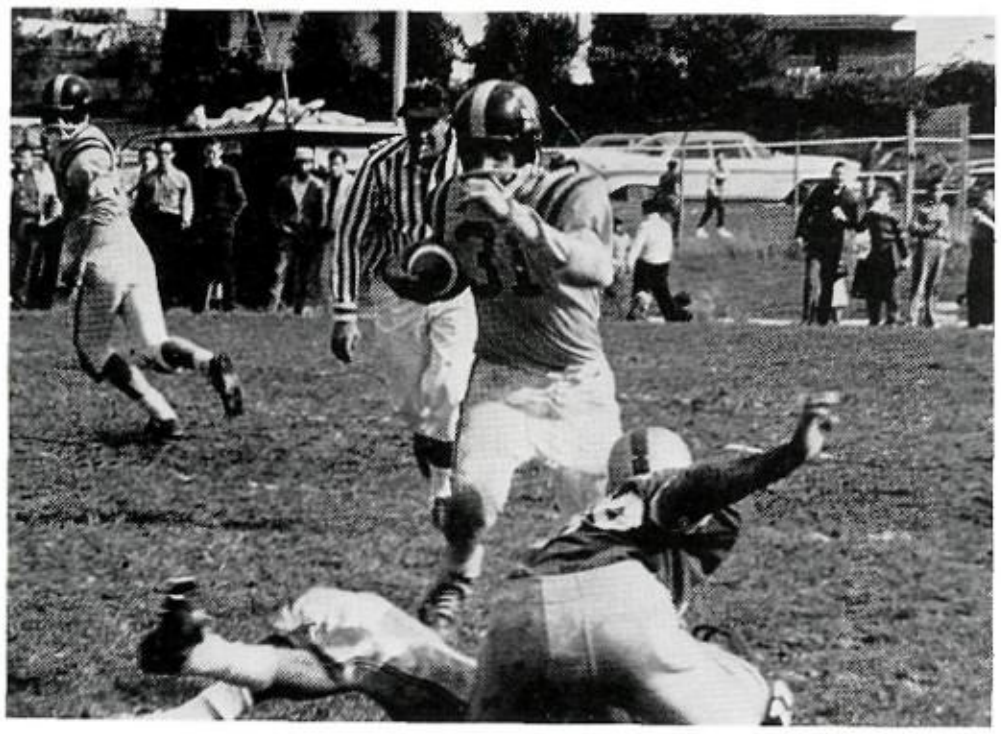
JOE WATERS, Second Team
All-County and Suburban Halfback Senior.



Keys picks up valuable yardage in the Northwestern game.

With a record of one win and two losses in league play, the Clippers played a must game against Bladensburg. The Oxon Hill eleven were unable to stop the Mustangs in their 19-6 victory. The Clippers only score came from a 40-yard run by Joe Waters.

Oxon Hill, unable to score two of their three extra points, was beaten in a close game with Central, 20-19. Joe Waters scored first for the Clippers from three yards out.

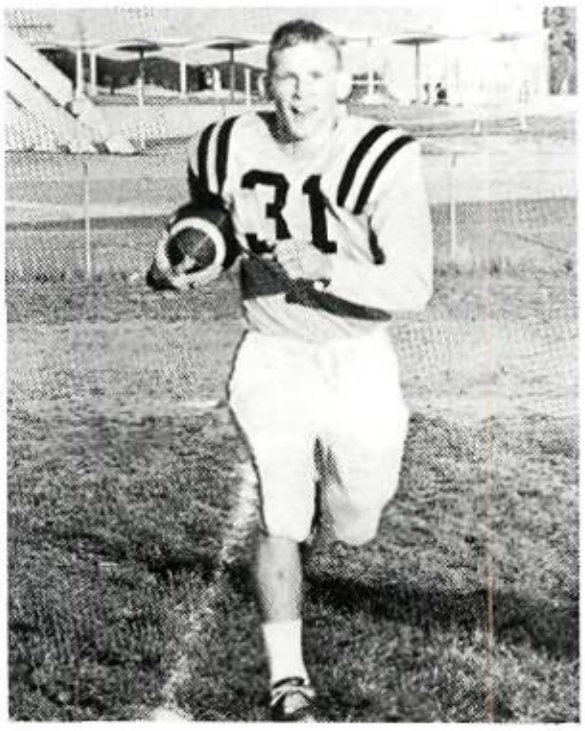
Close Game With Central

Joe Waters slides around end for an 8-yard gain against Annapolis.



DON KEYS, Halfback Second team All-County and Suburban Halfback, Senior.

He was followed by Dave Cubbage who caught a pass from Gary Oden for a 40-yard touchdown play. Don Keys made the last score of the game on a 15-yard passing play from Gary Oden. The kick was good but it just was not enough. Central ran out the clock to take the 20-19 victory.

The Clippers finished the season by bowing to Suitland 26-20. Oxon Hill's scores came on runs of 2 and 3 yards by Don Keys, and on a 25-yard passing play from Gary Oden to Scott Hunter.

Clippers Have

Coach Crescenze is optimistic about the game with Duval.

The Oxon Hill basketball team finished the season with an 8-12 record. Although the teams record didn't show it, the team played well in most of their games with four of their losses in the last 30 seconds of play. Basically the clippers were a hot and cold ball team winning at least once against all but three of the teams in the P. G. League.

It should be noted that although the team wasn't very productive in wins, with only three seniors on the squad, many players gained valuable experience for the next year.

The Oxon Hill cagers dropped the opener to the Mustangs of Bladensburg by a score of 71-60. The first half was close with the Mustangs on top, 38-37, but the game was all Bladensburg when they switched to a tight zone defense in the third quarter.

The first home game of the season was one of great disappointment for the Clippers as they were unable to move the ball against the well-balanced defense of the Hornets. Oxon Hill managed only to score 27 points against Surrattsvilles 63.

Next Oxon Hill took on Suitland and lost the spine-tingler in the closing seconds 62-60. Steve Hoover had a chance to tie it up after the buzzer with two foul shots but the pressure was too great. Later this game was forfeited to Oxon Hill due to an ineligible Suitland player.

MIKE HENRY, Senior

The Clippers broke into the winning column against arch-rival DuVal 70-68. With 19 seconds remaining, Steve Hoover tapped the ball in to give the Clippers the win. Pat Dempsey led Oxon Hill with 26 points and a shooting percentage of 73.

Against Central, Oxon Hill displayed bad ball handling throughout the game and lost by a score of 52-43.

Oxon Hill came back against Northwestern and sailed to an easy 57-39 victory. The Clippers held the Northwestern five to nine points in the first half against their 31.

The High Point game was nip-and-tuck all the way but the Clippers were beaten in the last minute, 44-42. With 5 seconds remaining Pat Dempsey had a chance to tie it up but he missed the short jump shot and the game was lost.

Hal Hooper goes up for a rebound.

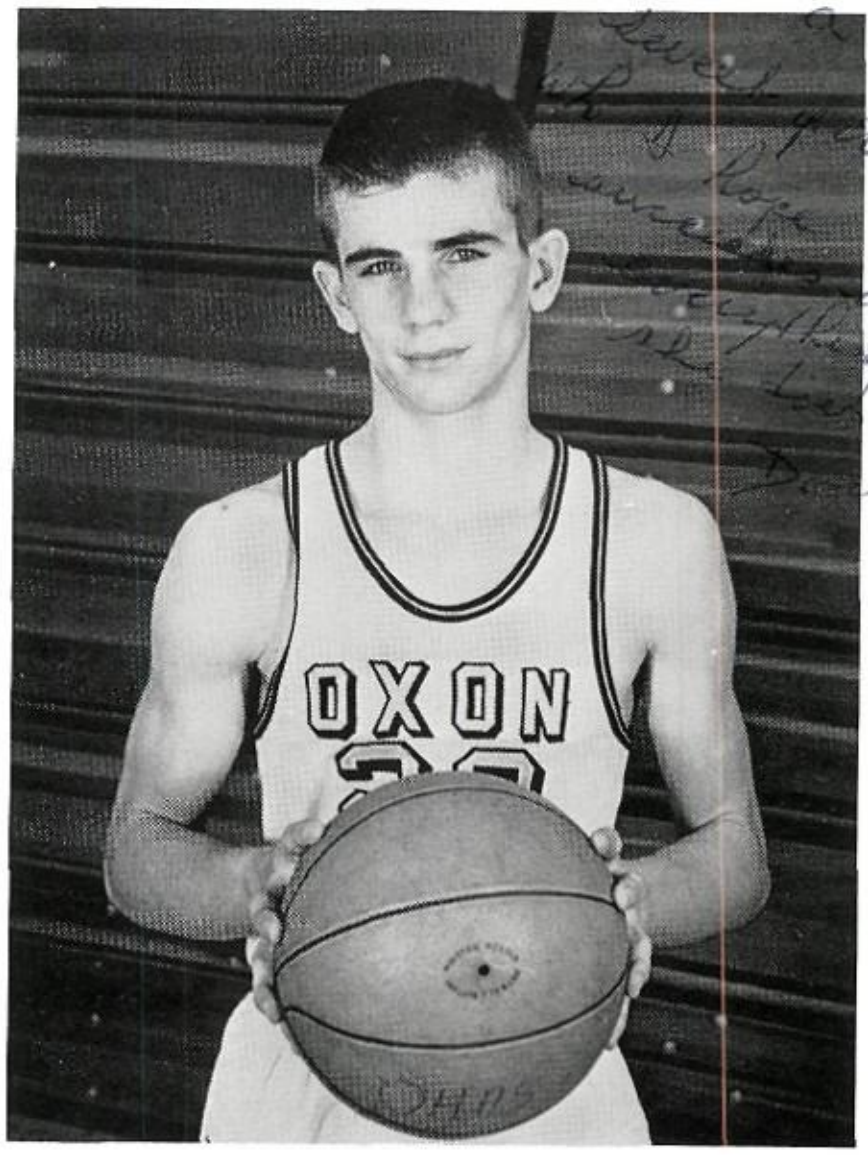
DONNIE MOORE, Junior



After a close first half, undefeated La Plata, forged ahead to win 59-46 over Oxon Hill. Oxon Hill's Captain, Pat Dempsey, led all scores with 24 points.

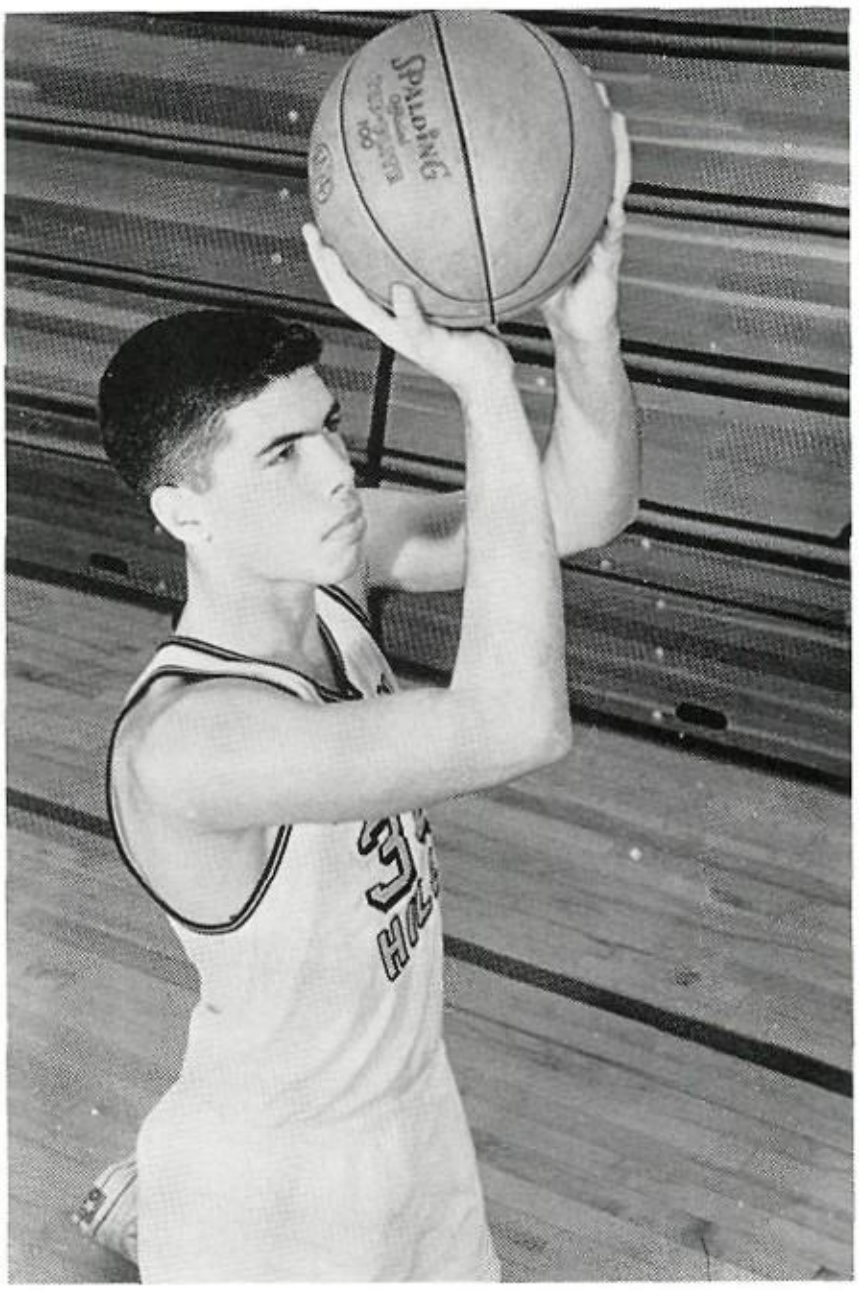
The Clippers were easily defeated when they played league-leading Fairmont. Oxon Hill led only once in the contest early in the first quarter by a score of 8-2 but this lead diminished quickly as Fairmont went on to win 77-55.

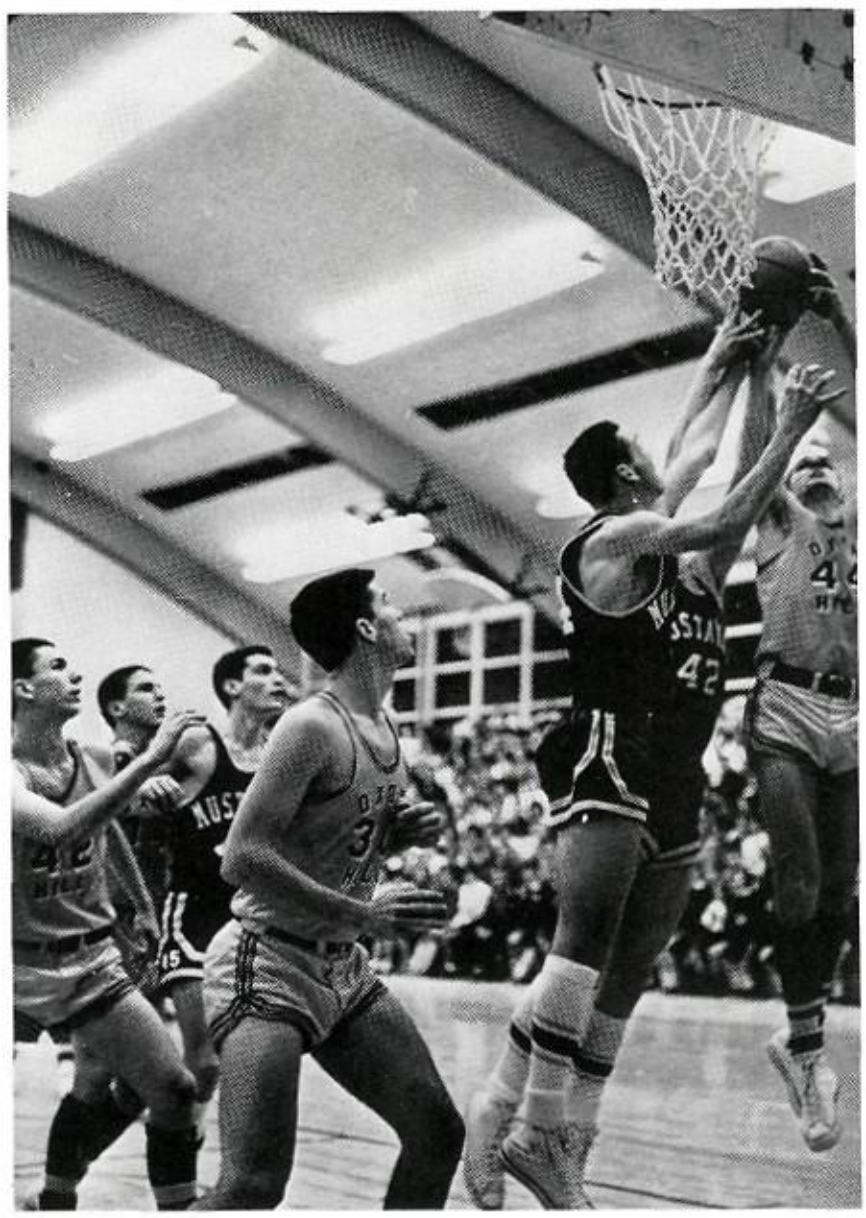
The Clippers proved too much for Woodward as they swept by the Prep school 81-43. The Clippers showed a well balanced attack with Dempsey, Hoover, Boaz and Henry scoring in double figures.

Oxon Hill again lost to top ranked Bladensburg 59-43. Although Bladensburg was held scoreless from the floor for seven minutes. Their foul shooting produced the winning margin.

Clippers Upset

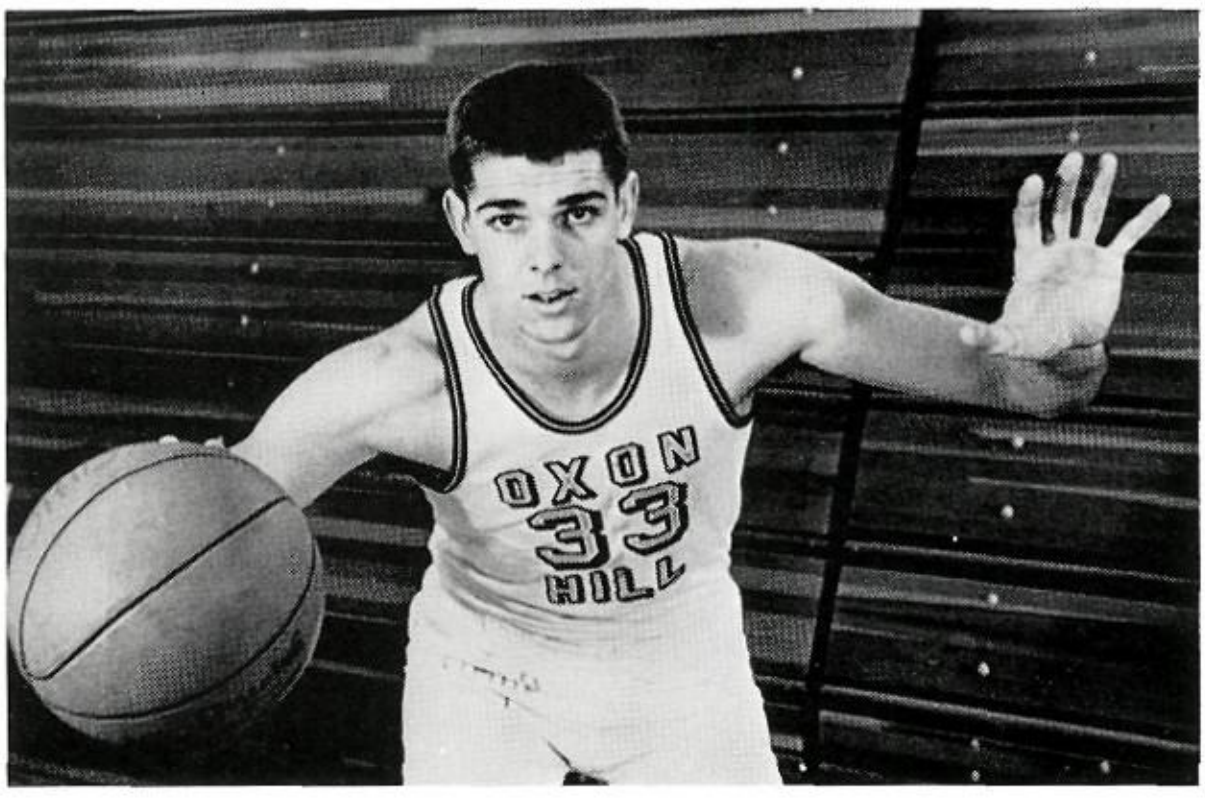
HAL HOOPER, Senior





Steve Hoover goes up for a basket as Hooper and Dempsey come in for the rebound.

STEVE HOOVER, Junior



Duval gained revenge against the Clippers, winning at the sound of the buzzer, 66-64. Pat Dempsey, Steve Hoover, and Nick Preble scored in the double figures for the Clippers.

Oxon Hill lost to Surrattsville 43-41. The Clippers trailed most of the game, but with 30 seconds left Mike Henry hit from the outside to tie the game up and send it in the overtime. At the end of the first overtime the score was still 33-11. The Hornets broke loose in the last 3 min. period to win 44-43. Don Moore played a good defensive game for the Clippers.

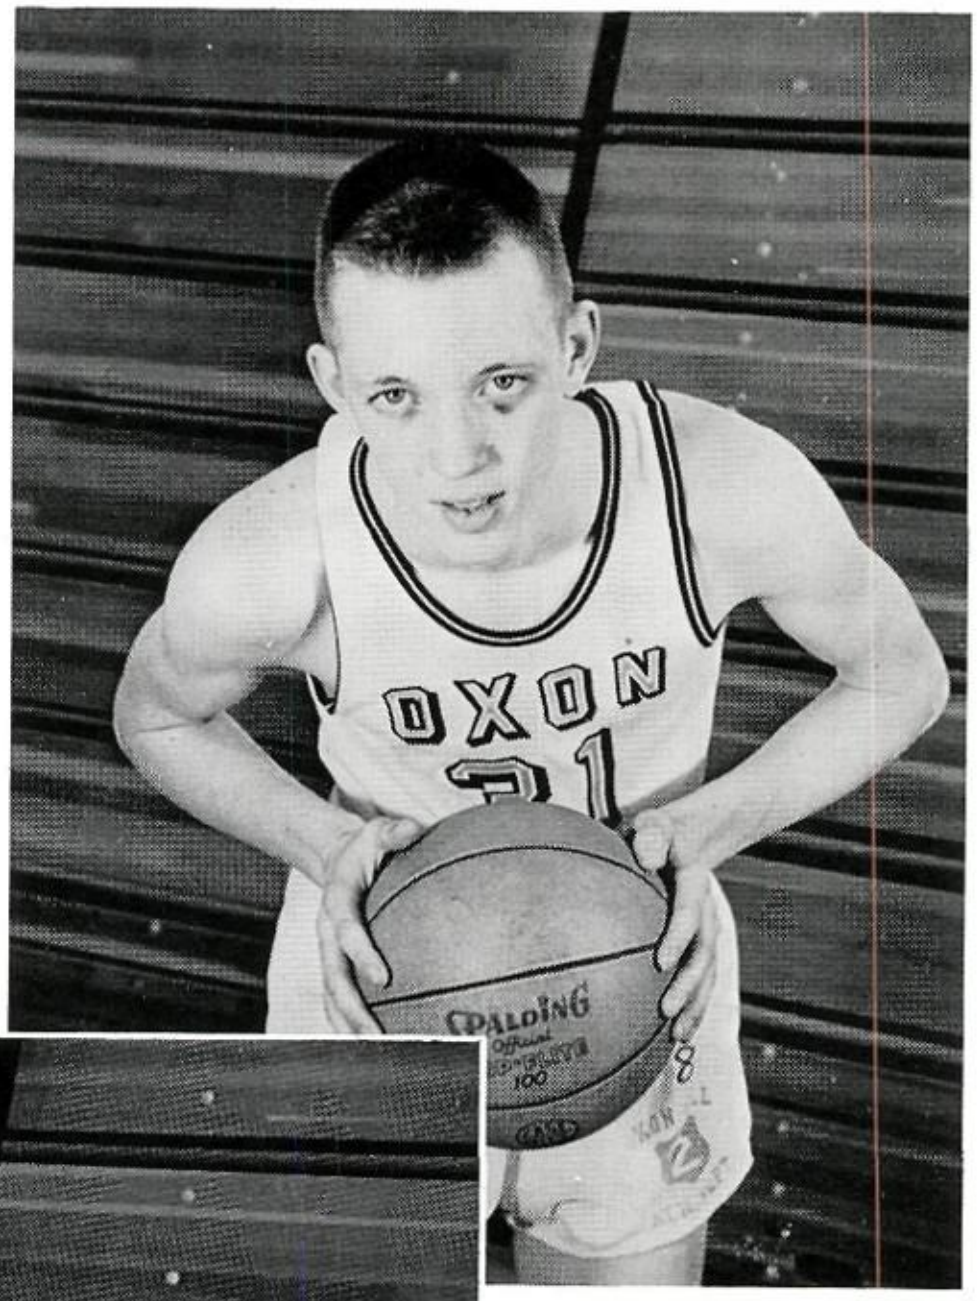
Oxon Hill led all the way as they beat Suitland 74-57. The Clippers' only threat came in the third quarter but Dempsey and Henry combined to carry the Clippers to a ten point lead by the end of the quarter.

High Point

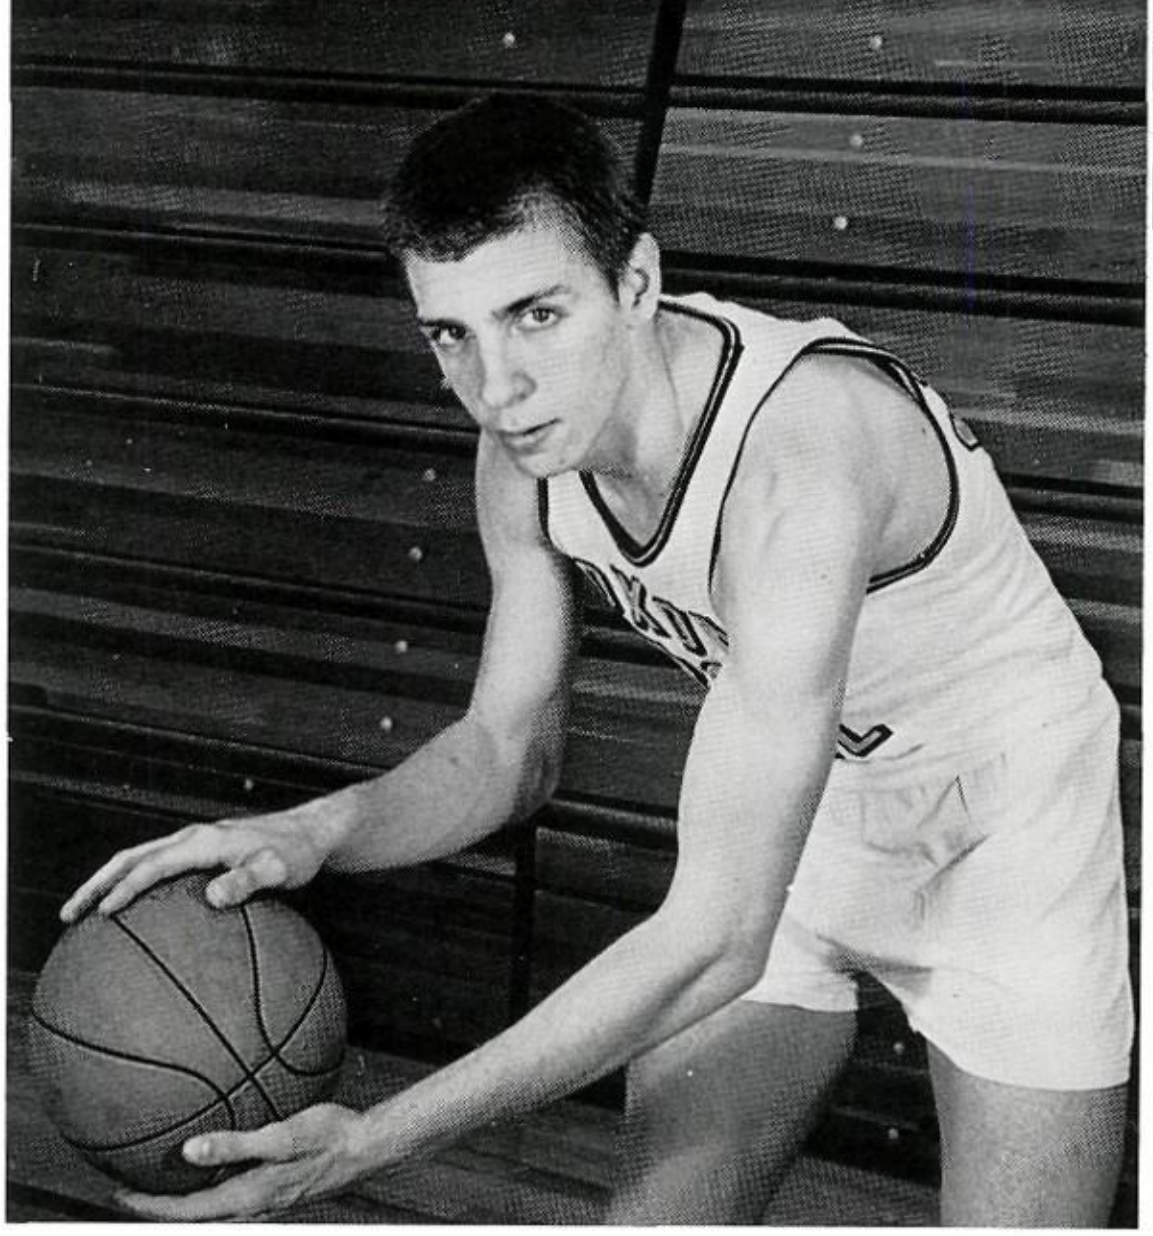
In the second game with Central, both teams combined committed 44 personal fouls. The Clippers, however, led by Junior Steve Hoover with 16 points managed to outscore Central from the free throw line to win 46-44.

The Clippers allowed the Wildcats of Northwestern to take full advantage of their bad ball handling and poor shooting as they easily walked over OHHS, 50-32.

Oxon Hill led by juniors Don Moore and Nick Preble bounced back to upset High Point 50-47. The Clippers ended the first half leading by 18 points as High Point was unable to stop the powerful offense of the Oxon Hill five. The second half showed Oxon Hill on defense as their 18 point half time lead diminished as High Point reversed the first half but the Clippers held on to win.



LARRY SMITH, Junior



MIKE SEGANISH, Junior

Again OHHS swept over Woodward Prep. 75-36. Steve Hoover led Oxon Hill with 15 points and a new school record of 25 rebounds. Pat Dempsey gained scoring honors with 17 points.

The Oxon Hill cagers ended the season in a fine game against Fairmont Heights. Although Fairmont won by 12 points, the Clippers put on the pressure in the fourth quarter, cutting a 22 point lead to 8 points. Fairmont won 62-50.

This year's J.V. team had a record of 12 wins and 6 losses. Due to the outstanding coaching of Tommie Schwartz and the boys' own ability, this year's J.V. is expected to add much strength to next year's Varsity.

Oxon Hill Wins

Paul Gagnan, Sophomore, easily beats the Northwestern man as Oxon Hillers cheer him on. He won the 60-yard dash in 6.6.

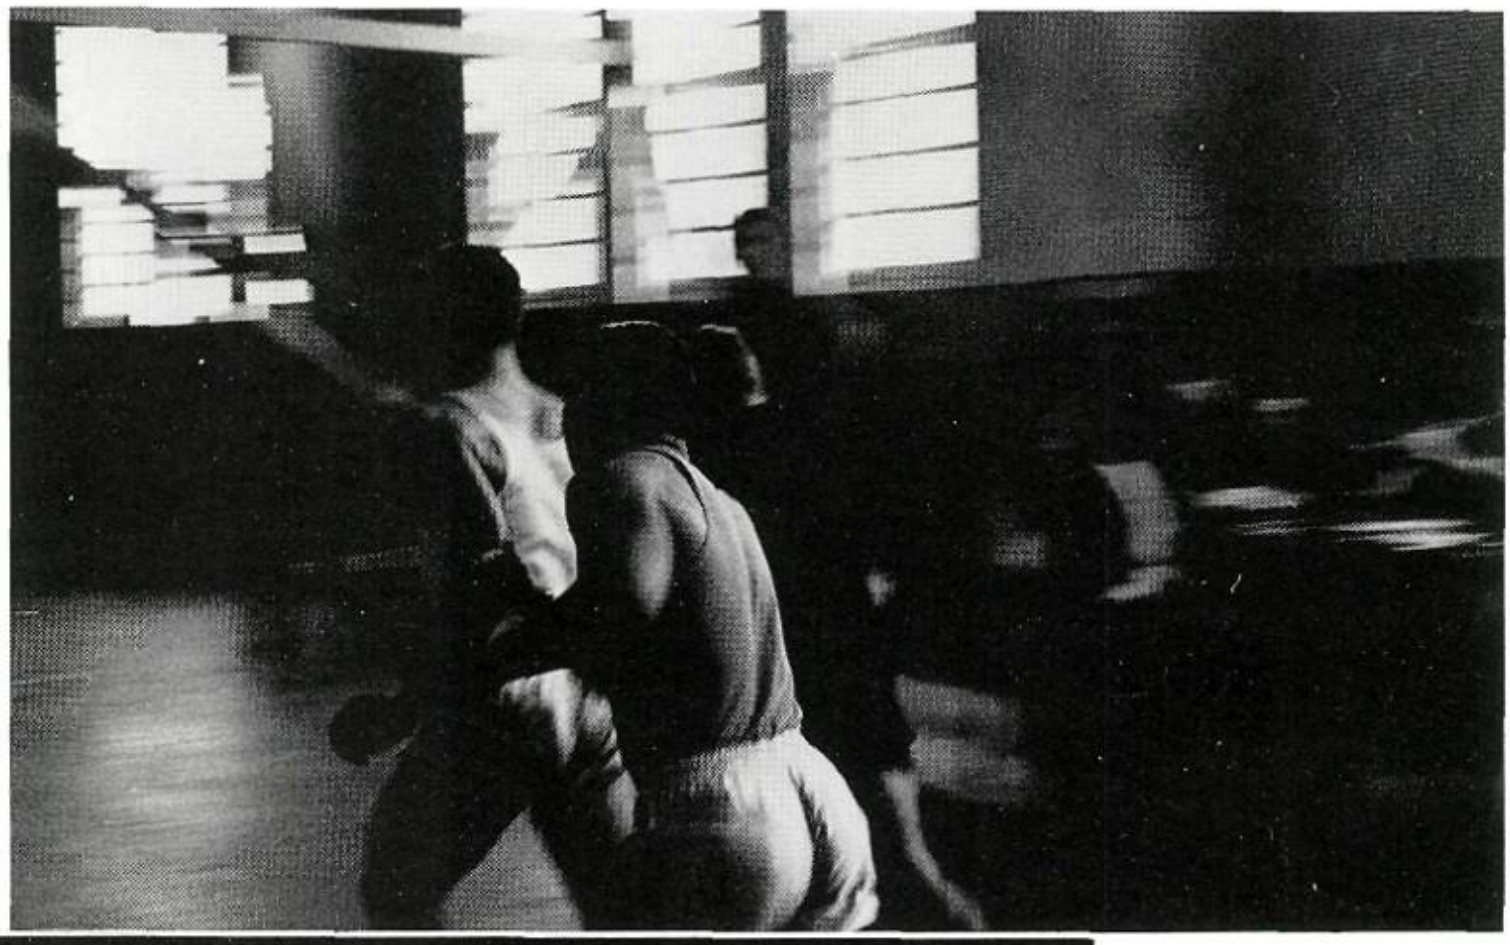
There are two firsts in the field of track this year at Oxon Hill. The team participated in indoor track, and the County Track Meet was held at Oxon Hill. Sophomores make up a large part of the team. Among them are two who can pole vault ten feet. With good sophomore backing the team was able to place first over Bladensburg and Northwestern in the meet at the University of Maryland Armory.

Don Ludke and Frank Kobolis place 3rd and 4th in the mile run at Maryland University.

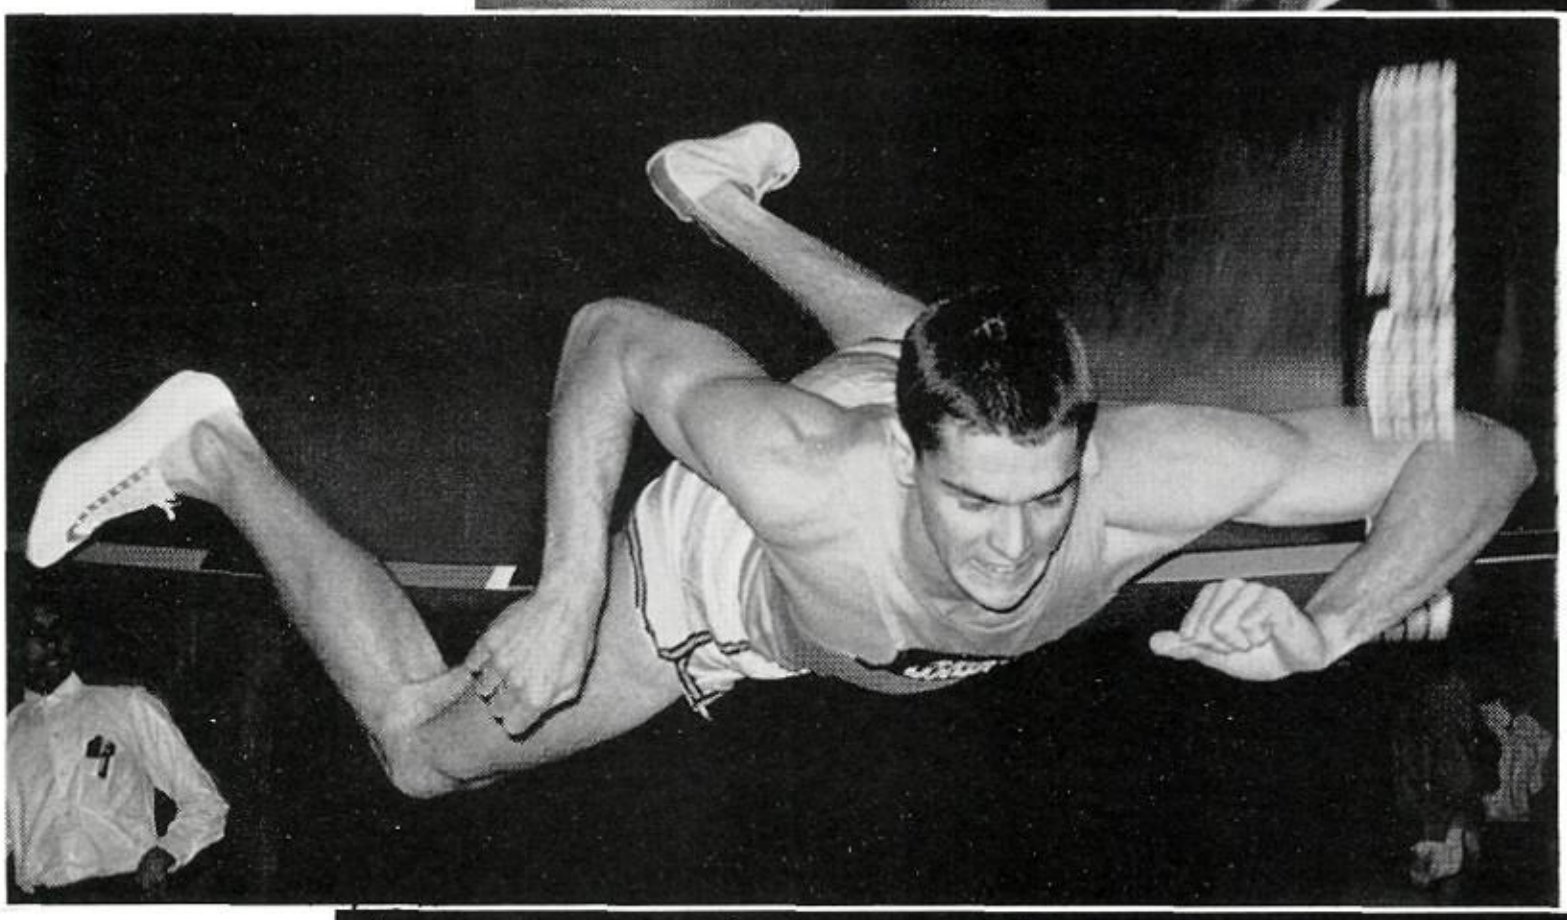
Anchor man, Joe Waters, breaks the tape to place first (for Oxon Hill) in the sprint relay.

Indoor Meet

Dwight Dennison represents Oxon Hill in the high jump.



Charlie Bolten worked his way up to the semi-finals in the 60-yard dash.



Steve Hoover, junior, cleared 5' 8" tying the school record for the high jump, and winning a first place at the Maryland University Meet.

In a second sprint relay the team of Waters, Lacy, Byrd, and Bedwell place second.

BASEBALL TEAM, First row: J. Arnold, L. Wellisch, K. Lima, D. Keys, T. Westwood. Second row: Coach Eddie Crescenze, W. Clark, F. Dennison, P. Dempsey, A. Harry, H. Vandover, W. Jeffries.

The Rasch family wishes the Oxon Hill Senior Class of 1963 every success in the hopes, dreams and tasks of their future undertakings. With the advent of the space age, the world of today has become more complex; every high school graduate should strive to attain the higher levels of learning. May each senior continue to display the curiosity, initiative and aggressiveness that has brought him to this plateau. Parents and teachers have imparted their wisdom and intelligence; now you are on your own. The next few years are formative — use them wisely and well, for the steps of youth cannot be retraced. Best wishes for success in your new ventures.
